Lost 3 Billion Days
Warning for Republicans
600,000 Will Be Idle
Science Hunts the Wicked

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1922, Star Co.

All that we have represents so many days' labor—labor with muscles, brains, machines, scientific instruments.

Labor has made everything, from books to bath tubs, from schools to prisons, from baby carriages to railroads.

And the worst waste is waste of labor.

For two years the average idleness in this country has been five million men. In two years, that means a waste of three thousand million days' labor.

We talk of high taxes, expensive government, etc. What does it all amount to, compared with the loss in two years of 3,000,000,000 days of work? Put the value—gross—of a day's work at $4 and you have a loss of twelve billions of dollars in two years, enough to pay all of Europe's debts to us, and leave a billion over for a bonus. That terrific loss continues, and the government is calm about it. The money is only lost forever, not paid out, visibly, so intelligent statesmen continue worrying about the little things.

There is just one important problem—idle labor, wasted wealth, the only REAL wealth.

James G. Blaine's old Congressional District in Maine went Republican, on Monday, by a majority cut down from 19,267 in 1920 to 7,000 in 1922, a loss of nearly two-thirds, and a serious warning to Republicans in the big election coming.

Four things figured in the loss of Republican votes:

First. The entangling treaty with Europe, proposed by Republicans, sixteen months after a million plurality against any league of nations.

Second. The soldiers' bonus, and the "we can't afford it" chorus.

Third. The cutting of wages, with the administration apparently setting the example in railroad control.

Fourth. Perhaps most important, the millions without work. The Republicans should never forget the dinner pail.

Nine days hence, if nothing is done to prevent it, 600,000 coal miners will go on strike. Business men are calculating how long "it" will last. Six months, some say, three months, say others. Railroads and factories have laid in coal supplies, more or less, but not enough, and if the strike lasts, there will be idleness of millions, distress, great loss for the nation.

The curious thing is that to stop it, through arbitration, forced or otherwise, is no one's business. We fight foot and mouth disease, floods, forest fires. But the great industrial disease we treat as ancient times treated the plague—just sit down and watch it.

Wireless telegraph and telephone are used to hunt rum runners on the Canadian border, and to prescribe for sick, at sea, on ships without a doctor. Flying machines are used to find the herds of fur seals, directing sealing boats by wireless. A criminal's finger prints can be sent, to identify him, by wireless telephotography. What is there that man cannot do, and where shall the guilty—or the innocent—hide?

How to kill adult mosquitoes, survivors of last year, before they lay their eggs? How to kill the codling moth and other orchard pests? This writer thought he had invented the method, bright lights, at night, to attract the insects. Under each light a wide-open mouth connected with a vacuum cleaner suction pipe, to pull the creatures down to a destructive oil bath.

It seemed simple, but the agricultural authorities said: "You would kill off all the useful, necessary insect life that fertilizes plants and renders other services. Your cure would be worse than the disease."

Interfering with nature's balance is dangerous. Our West coyotes killed lambs. A bounty was paid out for the coyotes. Then swarms of field mice ate all the alfalfa. The sheep starved. Coyotes had been killing the field mice.

Another Congressman wants to change the Constitution, elect the President for six years and make re-election illegal. It's unwise. A President, often, behaves well, because he wants another term. Tell him in advance that the people have nothing more for him, an he may interest himself in those that HAVE MORE TO OFFER. Man's incentive, from dogcatcher to President, is HOPE OF SOMETHING MORE.

Mr. Rockefeller's daughter, Mrs. McCormick, lecturing on women's history and troubles, says that when woman married out of her own tribe, in early life, she was a slave, dependent on her husband, because all the women of the new tribe hated her.

There have been exceptions.

2—District Attorney O'Brien stated there was no evidence as yet to warrant further police action. He then made the significant statement: "The Grand Jury meets Thursday."

3—Obert Sletten, Norwegian consul, declared he was barred from Larsen's apartment by Dr. Magrath, who intimated that information involving other men was locked in the room. He said: "Medical Examiner Magrath has intimated that

GIRL TRIES SUICIDE ON TRAIN

Doctors Knocks Bottle of Poison From Her Hand: Her Second Attempt

Clinton, March 22.—Women screamed and men shouted when sixteen-year-old Catherine Murphy of Fitch road, Lancaster, tried to kill herself on a train from Ayer to Worcester today.

A physician sitting some seats behind the girl rushed towards her as she raised to her lips a vial of iodine and attempted to swallow its contents. He knocked the bottle from her hand before she had taken much of the poison.

A moment or so later the train reached the Lancaster station and Dr. Charles H. Abbott and an ambulance were sent for and the girl's father, Daniel Murphy, notified.

Meantime the physician on the train had forced the girl to swallow part of a raw egg. When Dr. Abbott arrived, he found the girl out of danger, though her mouth and throat were badly burned by the acid. She was taken home by her father.

No reason for her attempted suicide could be given by the girl's parents and she refused to discuss the matter. It was said she made a similar attempt a few weeks ago.

SAYS HE THREATENED HER WITH REVOLVER

Louis Mazza of Linden avenue, Somerville, was sentenced to nine months in the House of Correction by Judge Sullivan in Charlestown court today, charged with having threatened pretty Miss Julia Scully of No 12 Mill street, Charlestown. She testified Mazza got on a car with her and behaved so rudely she threatened to call a policeman, when upon Mazza pulled a revolver and told her, "That's what you'd get if you called in the police." Mazza appealed from the sentence.

THREATEN REVOLT IN IRELAND

O'Connor Says Adherents of De Valera Will Try Coup Against Free State

By International News Service.

Dublin, March 22.—A revolutionary coup to overthrow the government of the Irish Free State will be attempted next week, it was declared here today by Roderick O'Connor, chief engineer of the Irish Republican Army.

According to O'Connor, the movement against the Dublin government will be made by Republicans or adherents of Eamon De Valera.

"It is certain that a coup d'etat will be launched against the Collins-Griffith government next week," said O'Connor. "Despite the refusal of Arthur Griffith to allow the Irish Republican army to hold a convention, it will be held next Sunday. Eighty per cent of the I. R. A. is loyal to the republic. The men will refuse to take orders from Griffith or Richard Mulcahy."

Griffith is president of the Dail Eireann or Sinn Fein Parliament. Mulcahy is Minister of Defense in the Irish Provisional Government. Michael Collins is Minister of Finance, but in reality the "strong man" of the government.

Councilman Curoran of County Connaught, who had been arrested by members of the Irish Republican army, was released today. Curoran had charged with recruiting police

Medford Aldermen Ask Landlords to Cut Rents

The Medford Board of Aldermen have adopted a resolution calling upon all property owners to cut rents to pre-war levels.

The resolution also instructs assessors in making their annual investigations for assessment purposes to inquire into the amount of rent charged and, where this is found to be high, to arrange for increasing the assessment accordingly.

This resolution, in which the aldermen place themselves squarely on record as in favor of such increased assessment where rents are exorbitant, has stirred the anger of many Medford property owners and was being fiercely denounced by them today.

REPORT BILL CUTTING NAVY TO 66,000

Washington, March 22.—The House Naval Committee agreed today to report a bill fixing the maximum authorized enlisted strength of the navy at 80,000, plus 6,000 apprentices, or 10,000 fewer than the number Secretary Denby declared was needed to operate the treaty fleet. The bill provides that not more than 200 members of each graduating class at the Naval Academy shall be commissioned this year, in 1923 and 1924. There are 541 members of the first class at the academy to be graduated in June.

'LEADS TO ENDLESS TROUBLE'

Foreign Entanglements and Alienation of Friends Certain, He Says

By Cosmopolitan News Service.

Washington, March 22.—The Four-Power Pacific Treaty was played in the Senate today by Senator David I. Walsh, Democrat, of Massachusetts, as certain to "lead the American people away from peace, from independence, and plunge them into international jealousy and entanglements, ceaseless troubles, misunderstandings, questionable practices, stultifications—and wars."

Walsh summed up his reasons for opposing the treaty as follows:

"(1)—In principle it departs from the past American practice of keeping out of international entanglements over 'territorial integrity or political independence.'

"(2)—It is not, as it is now drawn, inclusive of all possible nations to a dispute and hence unjudicial.

"(3)—It is an alliance of large powers for mutual defence of rights which will, if world history is correct, inevitably result in the creation of other alliances to counteract its influence and activity.

"(4)—It alienates friendly powers like Russia and China who will regard the treaty as being directed toward and militating against their interests and security.

"(5)—It compels recognition of

$100,000 WILL FIGHT LOST BY GIRL

Miss Huebel's Contest Taken From Jury; "Perfect Man" Gets Money

Newport, March 22.—Irene M. Huebel, young Boston stenographer, lost her suit for the $100,000 estate of her aunt, Mrs. Amanda S. Muenchinger, today. The case was taken from the jury, and the aunt's will, leaving the estate to Burton J. Baldwin, was sustained by the court.

Testimony showed that Baldwin first met Mrs. Muenchinger in 1915, but soon became managing director of her fashionable boarding house, and was referred to by Mrs. Muenchinger as her "perfect man."

Evidence was introduced showing Mrs. Muenchinger and Baldwin took trips together to Atlantic City, New York and other cities, with his clothes packed in her trunk.

Miss Huebel sought to break the will, alleging undue influence by Baldwin.

CLERGYMEN TO URGE BONUS FROM PULPITS SUNDAY

Many ministers of Greater Boston will, next Sunday, in the prelude of their evening sermons, advocate the bonus.

Many have already urged their congregations to become familiar with this question and at prayer meeting during the week in many churches the bonus has been upheld and defended.

Rev. Isaac Ward, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Columbus avenue, is one of Boston's strongest defenders of the bonus. He has signed the bonus petition being circulated by the Boston American, and will in his sermon Sunday evening call upon his congregation to rally to the aid of the World War veterans.

"I will push the bonus in my congregation by showing what it means and why it should be completed," he said. "I find people are ready to defend the bonus when it is explained to them properly.

"We sent our boys over seas and many sacrificed all they had in fighting. We were willing to do everything when they went across. Now they are back again, we must not forget our obligations."

At the Ruggles Street Baptist Church, Roxbury, the Rev. Dr. Selden M. Cummings will speak of the bonus and why it should be granted. At the First Methodist Church Rev. Henry I. Bailey, the subject will be mentioned in a sermon at a late date, as the pastor is just recovering from an illness.

"I am in favor of it by all means," he said. "We cannot do too much for the soldiers."

The Rev. D. M. Lockrow, head of the Men's Brotherhood, Tremont Temple, is another clergyman who will urge the bonus Sunday.

The bonus petition and other important news of the adjusted compensation campaign appears on page 6.

La Follette Says Pact Exploits Weak

By International News Service.

Washington, March 22.—In an impassioned speech, opening his first attack on the four-power treaty, Senator La Follette, Republican, of Wisconsin, described it to the Senate today as an "unholy combination of powers," formed for the purpose of exploiting prostrate Russia, Germany and China.

"It is true," he said, "that Germany and Russia are prostrate and China impotent. But that condition will not last long. The day will come when those great countries, with their unnumbered millions, will recover their strength and then woe to the combination of nations which united to oppress them in the time of their weakness and distress!"

Write to Walsh Denying Urging Treaty

Washington, March 22 (By International News Service).—The National Catholic Welfare Council today transmitted a letter to Senator Walsh of Massachusetts officially denying that it, as an organization, had ever urged ratification of the Four Power Treaty.

"The Catholic Church has taken no part in any movement to influence ratification of the treaty," said the letter.

The council believes, it was stated, that "liberty of conscientious action" should be left to individual Senators.

Operators Forced Strike, Declares Miners' Chief

By JOHN L. LEWIS,
President United Mine Workers of America.

(Written Expressly for the International News Service)

New York, March 22.—The United Mine Workers have no desire to discommode or inconvenience the public.

The coal operators of the country have deliberately manoeuvred to force this suspension. They desire to dispose of heavy reserve coal stock at increased prices and are also desirous of forcing an unwarranted reduction of wages upon the mine workers. They further hope to be able to destroy the United Mine Workers of America.

In this they are doomed to failure. The mine workers will fight to protect their organization and to oppose any decrease in wages.

If it is to be a finish fight, the public must blame the coal operators for any inconvenience it may suffer.

PLENTY OF COAL IN STATE, SAYS HULTMAN

Indianapolis, Ind., March 22.—"There is no prospect of settlement" of the miners' wage controversy in advance of the nationwide walkout of half a million of hard and soft coal workers April 1. This statement was made today by William Green, secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers after he had read a Washington dispatch saying Cabinet officers were hopeful of an agreement.

"The public of Massachusetts need have no fear or worry over the present crisis in the coal industry," Eugene C. Hultman, chairman of the State Commission on the Necessaries of Life at the State House said today.

"Neither householder nor manufacturer should become alarmed," he added, "for there is plenty of coal on hand in Massachusetts for every body—for householder, schools, hospitals, manufacturing plants—sufficient to carry us through the coal burning season."

Echoing the assurance of Hultman are the reports from some of the larger coal concerns in Boston. They report sufficient stocks on hand to meet the demands of the public through the coal burning season.

"No cause for alarm should be seen in the present coal crisis. The public should not permit itself to be worked up into a flurry," declared an official of the Metropolitan Coal Company today.

"We have sufficient stocks of coal on hand to meet normal demands for the next month or six weeks."

100,000,000 Tons of Coal Ready for Big Strike.

Washington, March 22.—Shutdown of the coal mines on April 1 by a strike of 600,000 union miners apparently awaked little fear today among high officials of the government that the public interest will be endangered or that Federal intervention will be necessary.

By April 1, coal experts said, nearly 100,000,000 tons of bituminous coal would be available in emergency coal stocks laid by large consumers. These include railroads, public utilities and large industrial concerns.

The Attorney-General said he believed the government has authority to act to prevent interference in the production of coal.

WOMAN DRINKS POISON FOR A SECOND TIME

Mother Is in One Hospital, Daughter in Another From Same Cause

Mrs. Ida Cohen, thirty-five years old, of Dalton street, West End, is at the Haymarket Square Relief Hospital suffering from iodine poisoning, and her seven-year-old daughter, Ida, is at the Massachusetts General Hospital suffering from drinking a solution of washing soda by mistake.

This is the second time this week Mrs. Cohen has been taken to the hospital after drinking iodine. On Monday afternoon at the Haymarket square subway station she drank an ounce of iodine and collapsed.

Yesterday she had recovered and was released from the hospital. Mrs. Cohen said she had a position at the City Hospital and intended to go to work today.

She went to the home of her mother, Mrs. Bessie Matovit, on Salem street, the police declare, and asked her mother for ten cents for carfare. She then became hysterical and started to destroy the furniture. The police were summoned, but before they arrived Mrs. Cohen drank more iodine.

Mrs. Cohen will be held for observation. She refused to tell the doctors why she drank the poison.

for the Irish Free State, thus causing disaffection in the I. R. A.

This dispatch conveyed the first intimation that the Irish Free State planned to recruit a force of police, possibly of a quasi-military nature, as an auxiliary to the Irish Republican army. Although there have been mutinies of the I. R. A., the bulk of the force is said to be loyal to Michael Collins and Arthur Griffith.

Derry-Donegal Border Highways Are Blocked

Belfast, March 22 (By the Associated Press).—There has been marked activity by the Ulster special constables in the Derry district since yesterday.

Along the Derry-Donegal border they have blocked a number of roads, in some cases digging trenches across them. The specials are using tools commandeered from the Derry Corporation's street cleaning department.

A force of Ulster specials has been moved from Newtownbutler, County Fermanagh, to within a few hundred yards of Clones, in the Free State, where there is a strong garrison of the Irish Republican Army.

Five mobile platoons of specials from Omagh, Dungannon, Cookstown, Strabane and Killeter were concentrated last evening in the Tyrone Hills, from Pomeroy to the Sperrin Mountains, and searched the countryside.

The Cookstown platoon found a number of rifles and made five arrests.

Reports from the Ballagh Bridge region declare uniformed Irish Republican army members were observed moving between the occupied houses and were reported to be relieving the sniping outposts.

The police report that the snipers are evidently good marksmen and possess up-to-date field glasses, judging by the prompt way in which they spot the movements of the opposing forces. Reinforcements of police have been moved to the district, and this is reassuring the Loyalists to some extent.

Desultory firing continued all day yesterday from the Free State side of the border, along the frontier of counties Tyrone and Monaghan, between Aughnacloy and Clodon, mostly from snipers located in houses inside the boundary line, according to reports from the border received here today.

Churchill Appeals to Collins and Craig.

London, March 22 (By International News Service).—A public appeal to Michael Collins and Sir James Craig to meet and draw up an agreement which would avert war between the Sinn Feiners and the Ulster Orangemen was made in the House of Commons this afternoon by Colonial Secretary Winston Churchill.

Collins is minister of finance in the Irish Provisional government at Dublin and Craig is Premier of the Ulster government.

Secretary Churchill warned that Great Britain would take over control of the Ulster frontier unless the hostile factions were pacified.

MENACE IN THE FOUR-POWER PACT

By Senator Thomas E. Watson in His Columbia (Ga.) Sentinel.

THERE is not a line in the Constitution upon which anyone can base a substantial claim that our government has any authority to some other government part or the whole of its possessions.

No government can really become trustee for another, and these mandates that have been spoken of ever since President Wilson went to Paris are, in fact, pretended trusteeships that cover real sovereignty.

The World War, which finally involved even China, as well as Japan, grew out of the mandate given to Austria by the Berlin treaty of 1878.

We do not seem to be able to learn anything from experience, and we must appear to be headed for a similar mistake.

There are more than a thousand islands covered by these Pacific trusteeships, and there is probably not one European or American in a million that knows a thing about them.

ENGLAND, France and Japan are members of the League of Nations, and we are asked to become partners of theirs in a quadruple alliance.

How does that affect our relationship to the league?

In other words, if you become the partner of three men who are themselves the partners of a score of other men, what is the relationship of those other men to you and what is your relationship to them?

If we become the partners of the strongest members of the League of Nations, it looks to me as though we were going into the league by a side entrance. If we are to go in at all, why not go in by the front door?

Unless I am totally mistaken, the quadruple alliance formed by us and three of the most powerful members of the leagues, will make us brothers-in-law of the league.

We will be as closely connected with the league as the Siamese twins were connected with each other.

It is admitted that, if we ratify the Four-Power Treaty, it automatically dissolves the Anglo-Japanese alliance.

That being the case, it is evident that Japan considers the Four-Power Treaty as more valuable to her than is the Anglo-Japanese alliance.

If necessarily follows that Japan understands that if she ever needs our resources of men and money in time of war she can count on them as surely as she is now counting on those of Great Britain.

How many of our people want to see their republic made this kind of a auxiliary part of the imperialism of Japan

UNDER our historic policy of non-entanglement we have grown to be the greatest nation the world ever knew.

What invisible power forced the Republican party to scrap a policy which has brought us such phenomenal greatness and wealth?

Is it the international money power?

Is it the imperialistic spirit that seems to have conquered the world?

What is it that has entangled us so fatally with the empires of France, England and Japan?

Since when did our national interests become identical with those of Europe and Japan?

You can see what Great Britain gets from this alliance with the United States. She gets security for her very insecure possessions in the Orient.

If these treaties are ratified our unfettered independence will be a thing of the past.

THE Four Power Treaty shackles us, and it is idle for anyone to say that it does not. No man living can tell to what extent those shackles may interfere with our freedom and our future well-being. They necessarily imply the use of force, and they, therefore, mean the sending of other expeditionary forces to distant parts of the world. They necessarily mean a perpetual standing army in time of peace and the perpetual maintenance of a strong navy.

No wonder King Georges of England praised Mr. Balfour for bringing him such a present.

No wonder the Japanese are jubilant! They have been lifted to the plane of social and national equality. A high level which they had not previously attained.

The Japanese question on the Pacific Coast will now be harder than ever to handle.

THIS revolutionary departure from historic American policy was conceived in secret, and is now being nurtured in silence. With the exception of the Hearst newspapers, the press has nothing to say.

They do not want the people to know the facts.

If the people knew the facts there would be an uprising against the treaty.

The wife from far away has occasionally ruled the new tribe, including her husband. And man's tendency to find a wife of tribe, character, size and mind other than his own has been the world's greatest blessing.

NEW ENGLAND OPENS RATE FIGHT

Drive Against Unfair Differential System Started at Washington

Washington, March 22.—Vice-President Coolidge, Senators Lodge and Walsh and Governor Cox at a meeting of New England legislators and business men, pledged themselves to back the fight being waged here by Mayor Curley and the maritime Association of the Boston Chamber of Commerce to remove the unfair differential freight rates which prevail against Boston and other New England ports.

They also urged the buying by the Federal government of the Cape Cod Canal; the passing of the Ship Subsidy bill, and the defeat of the St. Lawrence Canal project as means to halt the threatened decline of New England shipping.

The meeting of the New England group, the most representative and the biggest of its kind ever to meet at the nation's capital, was called by the Maritime Association. It aimed to be the legislators of the six New England States the need for unity of action in fighting for justice for that section of the country.

UNFAIR RATES SCORED.

The urgency for the development of the ports by the removal of unfair differential freight rates, whereby Baltimore, Philadelphia and Southern cities get favorable rates for export transportation, was the keynote of every address.

Senator Lodge declared that Boston and other New England coast cities "are the victims of artificial and unfair rate arrangements."

Mayor Curley laid the blame for unemployment in New England to the diverting of shipping to other ports and the resultant effect on industry.

Facts and figures, showing the effect that the differentials have worked on New England, were presented by Wilbur La Roe, Jr., of Washington, counsel for the Maritime Association in its complaint to the Interstate Commerce Commission against the so-called "intermediate" where freight rates are unfavorable to Boston and other New England cities.

ROADS FACE CRASH.

Mr. La Roe declared that New England railroads are on the verge of starvation, and said that there is danger that the whole transportation machine in the six States may break down financially.

Senator Lodge made a plea for "New Hampshire, for New England," and said that with twelve Senators, thirty-four congressmen and all business interests of the six States behind them, "it should be easy to get what is wanted for New England."

Mayor Curley made a strong appeal for co-operation from the New England legislators and from the representatives of business present.

"Every thoughtful citizen views with alarm the decadence in New England," he said. "Today there is more unemployment than in any other section of the country, a condition which can be relieved only by a development of industry through a development of commerce."

He spoke of the port improvements in the Maritime Provinces, and declared that the only thing now necessary to the obliteration of New England was the acceptance of the St. Lawrence River Canal project.

"Unless we fight that issue," he said, "Boston and other ports will be wiped off the map entirely.

"From now on the rallying cry for us all must be, 'ship from New England ports.'"

NEW ENGLAND ORGANIZED.

Governor Cox said that New England had never been so completely organized as it is in the present campaign against freight differentials.

First Assistant Postmaster Bartlett, representing New Hampshire, declared that New Hampshire business interests and government will stand with Massachusetts in the fight for justice for that section of the country.

Senator Walsh declared there is no party label to New England's fight for justice. He said that New England delegation in Congress would be heart and soul behind the projects before the meeting.

LARSEN'S POWER OVER GIRL SUGGESTS 'MENTAL MURDER' THEORY

INFLUENCE ALMOST HYPNOTIC

Deadly Draught Ended Strange Drama of Lights and Shadows

By BERT FORD

Did Otto Haldor Larsen, Tech senior from Norway, slay Pauline Virginia Clark, pretty divorcee, by sheer power of suggestion?

Did he so dominate her mentally as to induce her to swallow the dose of cyanide of potassium neutralized with acid, which he admitted having secretly prepared for her?

Was the deadly potion prepared at her suggestion or at his own suggestion?

Did Larsen, as certain police officials suspect, conceive a new method of "mental murder" to get rid of the girl he loved in order to clear a student feud and at the same time defeat justice?

These are only a few of the theories provoked by the strange love triangle.

INFLUENCE WAS MUTUAL.

Although at first flush these hypotheses may sound absurd and farfetched they are borne out in many and loud by evidence in the case. And the facts show them to be within the realm of reason.

There is no disputing that Otto Larsen had a peculiar power over Pauline Clark and that she exercised just as odd an influence over him, according to disclosures that cropped out today as the result of further probing of the tangled love affair which led both to suicide.

This mutual psychic influence brought into play in each a latent personality of which they had been ignorant before they met six weeks ago.

Larsen converted Miss Clark from a carefree, irresponsible, effervescent social butterfly into a moody, furtive, depressed and penitent young woman.

INTIMATES MARVELLED.

Pauline Clark changed Otto Larsen from a sober, plodding, methodical, temperamental "grind" into a gay Lothario, while in her company.

Intimates were quick to note the change in both and to marvel at it. Until Larsen crossed her path Pauline Clark bubbled over with the joy of living. Pleasure was her god. Until she knew Larsen he lived in spending her many wealthy admirers.

Then almost overnight Larsen's mental power made a new being of Pauline. In the presence of her quarry she continued to be lively and to crave good times, but alone with the young Norwegian scholar she became serious and morose. She admitted it to friends.

He, on the other hand, suddenly changed his whole trend of life. From a punctual, painstaking student, he began to cut lectures and to be irregular, indifferent and lax. Classmates and fellow members of the Norwegian Club noticed it.

But great as was Pauline Clark's power over otto Larsen, his mental domination of her was even greater. It was stunning, dreamlike.

Larsen, in his farewell letter to Medical Examiner Magrath, admitted that he murdered Pauline Clark "one of the world's finest women," and that he committed a rival, Harold Wharton, a Harvard athlete, from Philadelphia, was better able than he was to make Pauline his wife.

This reflected his line of reasoning and proved that he had planned the compulsion of himself and Wharton as agents for the girl's hand.

LIKE LYNDELL CASE.

The case of Miss Clark and Larsen has been likened in certain quarters to that of the late Clarence W. Richeson and Avis Lindell. Richeson bought poison and gave it to Avis Lindell, telling her they were harmless tablets. She took them, ignorant of their real nature and of his malignant purpose, and died. Richeson, father of her child, wished to get rid of her in order to marry Violet Edmunds, a wealthy Brookline girl.

Discrepancies in Stories of Those at 'Poison Party'

Despite the secrecy maintained by Medical Examiner George B. Magrath, the story of what took place in Suite 16, No. 282 Newbury street, when beautiful Pauline Virginia Clark met her death at 4.30 a. m., March 16, is gradually coming to light. Discrepancies in the stories of eyewitnesses serve but to increase interest in ascertaining exactly what happened.

What really did happen in the last few minutes before Miss Clark died?

Here is what three of her guests say:

There was no intimation that Miss Clark had done anything unusual. She was in the parlor with Larsen and myself when she suddenly fell in a heap on the floor. Miss Cosskie was to remain over night, the rest of us were on the point of leaving. She had shown me two bottles. One I think contained perfume. The other was small and brown, without any label. — Bayard Wharton, rich Harvard student and only living witness of the death of Miss Clark.

Few minutes later while I was in the kitchen I heard Miss ——— cry out for me. Rushing into the parlor I found Miss Clark dying in a chair. . . . About one thirty a. m. —— reclined on a couch. Mr. —— was conversing with Miss Clark, and I with the lady from Worcester. . . . I took the vial but Miss Clark regained it. —From letter left by Otto Haldor Larsen, Tech senior, who gave Miss Clark the poison and later ended his life from the same bottle.

When Paul took the poison Mr. Christie and I were in the kitchen. Paul was sitting in the other room talking with Wharton and Larsen. . . . Wharton called. . . . Paul lay slumped back in a chair. The poison bottle lay on the floor. It was the first time I had seen it.—Miss Anna Cosskie of Worcester, the only other girl at the "poison party."

STOLE $7,448, IS PLACED ON PROBATION

Coulthurst Agrees to Make Restitution of Missing Sum to Touraine

Roger Coulthurst, 41 years old, of Gainsborough street, Back Bay, assistant bookkeeper at the Hotel Touraine, pleaded guilty in the Superior Criminal Court today to the charge of embezzling the larceny of $7,448, the weekly payroll of the hotel. On recommendation of District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien he was placed on probation. He will make restitution of $500.

On February 27 Coulthurst was sent to the United States Trust Company with a check for $7,448 which he was to cash and bring back to the hotel. He failed to return with the money and the police were notified. A search was started, and on March 1 he was found at the Bay State hotel in Worcester in company with Albert J. Walker, thirty-six, of West Dedham street, a waiter at the hotel Touraine. When searched all but $500 of the stolen money was recovered.

In court today Claude M. Hart, manager of the hotel, pleaded with Judge Bishop to be lenient with Coulthurst. He said the man did not have criminal instinct when he took the money, but was under the influence of liquor. He also told the court that he would assist him in getting another position.

Hart was accompanied by Mrs. Violet Edmunds, a wealthy Brookline girl.

LARSEN'S BODY WILL BE SENT TO NORWAY

Consul Continues Probe of Suicide After Pauline Clark's Death

The body of Otto Haldor Larsen, mental murderer and suicide, will be sent to his home at Christiana, Norway, it was announced at the office of the Norwegian Consul today.

Arrangements to that end are being made by Consul Obert Sletter in New York.

Consul Sletter was also in conference there with the Consul-General at New York, by whom all investigation into the Tech student's death will be made and the facts called to the government of Norway.

A reply to the cable sent Larsen's parents at exactly 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon by Consul Sletter was received at the office of the Norwegian Consul today.

A reply to the cable sent Larsen's parents at exactly 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon by Consul Sletter was received at the office of the Norwegian Consul today.

Speeding Bostenward from Kingston, Jamaica, is the mother of beautiful Pauline Clark, into whose hands Larsen placed the poison with which she ended her life at the suicide party.

Referring to the proposal to take Norwegian students away from Tech because of the light revealed by the death party from which Larsen fled, the Norwegian Consul's office today denied there had been any plan made to place students in another city.

"Conditions would probably be as bad in any other city as they are in Boston," said the assistant to the consul."

After a fifty-minute conference with Medical Examiner George Burgess Magrath, District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien announced that there was nothing up to the present which would warrant him or the police investigating further the deaths of Miss Clark and Larsen.

"I have had a long talk with Dr. Magrath," said District Attorney O'Brien, "and wish to state that there is nothing yet which would warrant the police or the county prosecutor investigating the Clark case. Dr. Magrath informed me, however, that his investigation has not been quite completed. When it is he will submit his report. I expect that very soon. Pauline Clark's body is expected to arrive in Boston today."

Asked if he planned to probe alleged "mental murder" Mr. O'Brien replied rather evasively:

"That is a different matter. A Grand Jury is coming in on Thursday."

LARSEN NOT MARRIED.

The Norwegian authorities are conducting an independent investigation of the Clark-Larsen tragedy in order to make a report to the government of Norway. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson, secretary to Obert Sletter, Norwegian Consul in New York, said:

"Reports that Otto Larsen was married are not true. I have just been viewed by friends of the family. Mr. Sletter has gone to New York in connection with an inquiry into the matter. When he returns we shall be happy to make a full statement to the police in Boston."

Otto Larsen had always borne an excellent reputation. He won a scholarship in Norway and had been sent here with other students to the country to study chemical engineering at Technology. His family, while not extremely wealthy, has means and high social standing in Christiana. His father is an importer of flour. There is one other child, a daughter. A full investigation is being made in behalf of our government."

AWAIT GIRL'S MOTHER.

District Attorney O'Brien intimated that Dr. Magrath desired to await the arrival of Pauline's mother before completing his report on the girl's death.

It was learned today that Pauline Clark had chummed for a time with Theresa Duggan and one or two other girls who have been identified with the Boston blackmail ring. There is no direct evidence that she had ever been blackmailed, but there were circumstances which indicated that she may have gone close to the line on occasions.

She had many opportunities and developed the ability to make money, as her allowances from a number of wealthy men were too generous.

CONDUCTED "CALL PARTIES."

In spite of her affluence, however, there was a period in the last year when she carried on what is known to the police as a "call system," on a very quiet and discreet scale. She would telephone to taxi drivers to call at certain hotels to meet one or two girls, who were conveyed to her apartment to complete couples at her request. The taxi chauffeurs noted that Pauline Clark never sent a taxi to a girl's dwelling, but always arranged to have them waiting at the ladies' entrance of a very proper hotel. In this way no trail was left.

Miss Clark lured some of the most prominent men in the city, and the sums lavished on her for a time are reported to be quite astonishing. But these lovers were casual and, toward the end, only a few of the really substantial men could be depended upon as a fixed source of income.

Crowley Contradicts Magrath on Death of Pauline Clark

POLICE SUPERINTENDENT MICHAEL H. CROWLEY SAYS:

Pauline Clark's death was murder.

Larsen's letters prove it.

The police were not notified for thirty-five hours.

In that time Larsen got away and eventually killed himself.

If the police had known the circumstances immediately after the girl's death, we would have arrested Larsen on our own initiative.

MEDICAL EXAMINER GEORGE BURGESS MAGRATH SAYS:

Pauline Clark was a suicide.

She had shown a young woman friend a bottle with the comment that it contained enough poison to kill an army.

She said when she was through with life she would make use of it.

Shortly before her collapse she is said to have drank from a glass believed to have contained the poison.

Post mortem examination revealed conditions pointing to death by poisoning.

MAGRATH'S ATTITUDE IS SCORED BY CROWLEY

many folks high up are involved."

Dr. Magrath announced that he awaits the arrival of Miss Clark's mother. Mrs. Herrick, from Jamaica, before completing his report to the district attorney. Mrs. Herrick is expected here tomorrow or Friday.

Superintendent of Police Michael H. Crowley declared today that the death of Pauline Virginia Clark by poison in her apartment, No. 282 Newbury street, March 16 was murder.

To a Boston American reporter he stated: "The murder occurred at 2 a. m., March 16, and it was not reported to the police until 1 a. m., March 17, thirty-five hours later. Otto Larsen's letters show it was a murder."

This is in direct contradiction to that expressed by Medical Examiner George Burgess Magrath, who declared the woman's suicide, and stated he would make a report to that effect.

Superintendent Crowley further declared that because of the long delay in notifying the police of the death of the Back Bay woman, Otto H. Larsen, who gave her the poison, was enabled to get away and take his own life Sunday morning.

"Had we known the circumstances concerning the Clark woman's death immediately after it happened," said the superintendent, "we would have arrested Larsen on our own initiative.

"Furthermore," he added, "when Medical Examiner Magrath reported the death to Captain Goode of the Back Bay station, he did not tell him all the details, but merely said he wanted to question Larsen according to what the captain tells me. As a result Captain Goode sent only one man to look for Larsen, not to arrest him, but merely to have him go to the medical examiner's office for questioning.

"If we had known that Larsen gave the poison to the woman, we would have sent out a squad of men and attempted to round the Norwegian up at once. I don't say that we could have caught him, but at least we should have made a strong effort to do so.

"The first that I knew of the affair was when a newspaper reporter walked into my office and asked me if I knew of the mysterious death of a woman in the Back Bay. I told him I did not. It was not until 1 o'clock that day that Dr. Magrath walked into Station 16 and reported the death to Captain Goode.

"At that time he said he had questioned all the witnesses but one, Larsen, and asked that an attempt be made to locate him. Captain Goode then sent a man to the Norway Club and one or two other places, who, of course, did not locate Larsen.

IN NEW YORK SATURDAY.

"We learned later that Larsen was in New York Saturday and returned to Boston probably arriving at midnight. Then he evidently went over to the Essex Hotel and wrote the letters without registering. Possibly he had read the story in the Sunday American. After writing the letters Larsen must have walked out to the Fenway where he committed suicide.

"The letters were evidence that he was responsible for the Clark girl's death. He said that he got her the poison and apparently he induced her to take it. He also stated that she had promised not to take the poison until her mother arrived, but he knew he could not rely on that.

"If we had known what the letters contained we must have suspected when he was first called. We would have arrested him on our own initiative for giving the woman the poison. We do not have to wait for the police to make an arrest.

"Another thing. A reporter informed me that Dr. Magrath told him Captain Goode had the permission of, or gave the investigation. In fact, Captain Goode declared he was not given that permission.

"Of course the medical examiner is not compelled by law to report a murder to the police, but he should inform them. He has to report it to the district attorney, and the district attorney is the one to whom I look for information in the case. But he refuses to give me any information. I was able to get away and eventually take his own life."

Dr. Magrath's first public report on the death of the Clark woman was carefully guarded in its phraseology. It read:

"On Thursday March 16, about 2 a. m., Pauline Virginia Clark (went to three years old and divorced, living at No. 282 Newbury street) died while at her home accidentally collapsed and soon after died.

"Her friends advised no removal date her and called medical assistance. Physicians were summoned at once. They declined and notified the medical examiner who forthwith took charge of the body.

"Superintendent Crowley further declared that because of the long delay in notifying the police of the death of the Back Bay woman, Otto H. Larsen, who gave her the poison, was enabled to get away and take his own life Sunday morning.

"Had we known the circumstances immediately after it happened, said the superintendent, we would have arrested Larsen on our own initiative.

"Furthermore," he added, "when Medical Examiner Magrath reported the death to Captain Goode of the Back Bay station, he did not tell him all the details, but merely said he wanted to question Larsen according to what the captain tells me. As a result Captain Goode sent only one man to look for Larsen, not to arrest him, but merely to have him go to the medical examiner's office for questioning.

"If we had known that Larsen gave the poison to the woman, we would have sent out a squad of men and attempted to round the Norwegian up at once. I don't say that we could have caught him, but at least we should have made a strong effort to do so.

FIREMAN PULLED OUT OF BLAZE BY ROPE

Niagara Falls, March 22.—Plunging from the roof of the building on which he stood fighting a fire into the midst of the fire by the collapse of timbers, Engineer Edward Parkinson of the Niagara fire department was rescued by his comrades today. Obtaining a fire rope, they made a noose at the end, lowered it into the room to which Parkinson had fallen, worked the noose under his arm, tightened it and then pulled him to safety.

BLAMES QUINCY AND MILTON FOR MURDER

Cunningham Counsel Pleads Self-Defence in Closing Argument

Responsibility for the killing of John Lorenz Cunningham, wealthy Milton gentleman farmer, on trial for murder, was put squarely up to the city of Quincy and the town of Milton today by Defense Attorney John W. Cummings.

More shame is the city of Quincy and town of Milton," shouted the fiery attorney, forefinger at the jury. "More shame that has allowed this crime to be committed than attached to protect this man's prisoner."

He was forced to witness men come on to his estate, cut down trees, startle cows and insolently rob his wife's garden. He had not the warning them to keep off. He had been shot at and his life was in danger. He appealed for protection time and again and was refused it.

Then he feared the fate that his friends had met 33 years before when killed by a poacher. The day he killed Lorenz he suffered from a bad headache and had taken a powder. He had put his pocket as if to draw out a weapon.

What happened? Cunningham did. Who wouldn't have shot in the such circumstances?

McAnerny made a strong summing-up plea to the jury. His argument was self-defence.

He spoke two hours.

Cunningham did not take the stand in his own defence.

He will however, avail himself of the privilege given in capital cases of making a statement to the jury after the closing arguments.

Attorney Sherman L. Whipple opened for Cunningham, announced this when the trial was resumed today.

District Attorney Frederick G. Volkmann began the examination of rebuttal witnesses. He put on the stand Dr. Allen Greenwood, a local physician, who testified that he knew Richard Nichols as a patient. Evidence was submitted yesterday.

Nichols had testified that he heard the shots fired in 1921, and saw Cunningham again and was told by the latter that he had "killed a man." Dr. Greenwood said that he removed Nichols' right eye November 1, 1921, and that May, 1921, operated on his left eye.

He said Nichols could see but twenty feet, where he should be able to see 200 feet. He said it was impossible for Nichols to judge distances, but under cross-examination admitted that Nichols could see in certain directions.

Mrs. Eva Johnson, widow of the man who was said also to have been killed by Cunningham years ago. She was asked if her husband had started a row before the shooting was established on objection by Attorney Whipple.

ENGLAND CALLS ON GEDDES TO EXPLAIN

London, March 22 (By International News Service)—The British government, through Austen Chamberlain, foreign secretary, denied any intention of interfering in American domestic politics. Referring to the recent statement of Sir Auckland Geddes, British ambassador to the United States on the Pas Sir Cecil, concerning the "radical son of Senator Johnson," Mr. Chamberlain said:

"The government has sent Ambassador Geddes a full report of the controversial denial of his statement. No statement of mine is necessary to make clear to the American people that Britain has no desire to interfere in the internal politics of the United States."

YOUTH FINED FOR SALE OF LIQUOR TO POLICE

Marino Quartarone, sixteen years old, of Bennington street, East Boston, was charged in the East Boston Court today with making an illegal sale of liquor to a police officer. He pleaded guilty and was fined $50 which his father, Pietro Quartarone, paid.

The boy said he had been selling whiskey for two months.

ROXBURY MAN DENIES FORGING TWO CHECKS

Edward J. Welch of Waverly street, Roxbury, who last Saturday was charged with having represented himself as private secretary to Mayor Curley, was in court again today charged in two counts of forgery and larceny totalling $47.50. He pleaded not guilty and was held in $500.

FIGHT REVEALS STOLEN AUTO IN NEWTON

Trio Held on Larceny Charge When Police Are Called to Stop Battle

A wild fight between a man and a boy in front of the house of Clark and Boston streets, Newton, resulted in the discovery that the limousine was stolen from Boston and that the number plates on it were interchangeable taken from a smaller car.

Incidentally, the affair brought three persons into the Newton court this morning charged with assault and breaking the peace, and causing fines of $100 each to be paid and will be held in Boston for the larceny of the machine and number plates. Both of them are on the additional charge of breaking and entering.

Sergeant Meehan and Patrolman Delaney were told by a pedestrian that a fight was in the car. The officers proceeded to the scene and found Dennis Meade, twenty-two years old, of Boston, and Edward Lombardi, and William Welch engaged in a desperate battle.

The scrap happened during the absence of Walter Blaikie, said to be the owner of the limousine, who had gone in search of gasoline. On his return he started to look into what was going on. He found out when all three were taken to the police station and booked on the disorderliness and disturbance charges.

Investigation proved that the limousine was the property of Timothy Santry of Boston, and the number plates had been stolen from a car also in the city.

Today in the Newton Court, Special Officer Ayers and Kahn of Station 6, South Boston, identified Welch as a man they wanted for breaking and entering. Welch, they alleged, is a drug addict and a quantity of the narcotic was found in the stolen machine. When arraigned today he was in a highly nervous condition and a physician was summoned.

Meade, who gave his name as Meader, was fined $15 on the drunk charge, and not guilty on the charge of disturbing the peace.

SAYS WARNER WAS PARTNER OF HATHAWAY

Fuller's Counsel, in Closing Argument, Accuses Former Speaker of Untruths

Taunton, March 22.—Attorney John W. Cummings, senior counsel for Lieutenant Governor Alvan T. Fuller in the $100,000 slander suit brought by former Speaker Joseph G. Warner, began the closing argument before the court room filled with men and women, some of whom had been waiting since 7:30.

Judge Sisk took the bench, when court adjourned for luncheon, after which Cummings resumed. Hall of Boston, chief counsel for Warner, was to argue until 4.

Attorney Nelson P. Brown will instruct the jury tomorrow morning, after which the jurors will take the case.

In his argument Attorney Cummings charged that Warner and Governor Fuller found his charges against Warner upon the fact that Attorney Hathaway of Boston and counsel for the Arkwright Mills, Providence street, East Douglas, was a partner in the law firm of Attorney Hathaway and Warner before Governor Fuller was proved and punished.

"Furthermore I say you find that Hathaway and Warner were partners then you must regard everything Warner said from the witness stand as utterly unreliable—for to use a shyster barrister word.

Shortly after noon recess of the court, room crowded with women, Deputy Sheriff Isaac Wilbur, addressing the crowd, warning all present that if any attempt was made to applaud he would instantly clear the room.

BEGAN GAY LIFE WHILE STILL A SCHOOLGIRL

Pauline Clark, Poison Victim, Often Seen in Night Life in Back Bay Hotels

Miss Clark was born in Boston. The family lived in Lowerfield street, Roxbury, for a number of years. While quite young she began to frequent Back Bay hotels dancing and dancing. In March, 1918, she attended a dance rendered by naval and army officers at Hotel Westminster.

She was introduced to Lieutenant William H. Sheean of Nashville, Tenn., of the Submarine Chaser U. S. S. Sacco, docked at the Boston Navy Yard. After a rapid five days' courtship of two days they were married by a justice of the peace and lived together two days, when they separated.

Friends say they had both been drinking before being married. Thomas, a decent young fellow, clearly did not realize the step he was taking. Married and single men at Boston City Hall show that he was twenty-three at the time, and Pauline nineteen.

She gave her address as No. 15 Gleason street, Dorchester, and her occupation. Pauline Wade. At home. She gave her father's name as Charles E. Clark, and her mother's as Sara Waterman Clark. Her grandmother was Mrs. Herrick, a name which Pauline used at times.

SECURED HER DIVORCE.

Lieutenant Sheean was soon transferred to Newport and later went to sea. After some months Pauline and her mother occupied apartments at 282 Newbury street, the Tremont building. He secured a divorce for the girl on the grounds of cruel and abusive treatment. Thomas did not contest the suit. Pauline claimed he slapped her face.

Pauline continued to attend the Back Bay hotels, Copley-Plaza, Copley-Plaza. She met Bayard Wharton, Harvard student and son of a Philadelphia banker, at the Copley-Plaza, according to Pauline's friends, was much infatuated from the start. He was a frequent visitor at her Newbury street apartment and accompanied her to the Copley-Plaza and the Egyptian Room at the Touraine.

Pauline, according to Ora Cosskie of No. 24 Townsend street, Worcester, a friend of hers, announced at the fatal party last Wednesday night that she expected to marry Wharton on Saturday. Wharton at the appointment greatly upset Otto Larsen, who looked glum after hearing it.

Wharton, the alleged fiancé of Pauline Clark, attended classes as usual today and dined at the Harvard Club, No. 2 Holyoke place. He refused to talk to American reporters who was engaged to Pauline Clark and planned to marry her last summer. Wharton replied by nodding his head: read:

"I have nothing to say."

RICKARD GAVE HER MONEY, GIRL SAYS

Tells Court of Auto Rides With Sport Promoter After His Arrest

New York, March 22—Fifteen-year-old Sarah Schenfeld, dark complexioned, black-haired and rosy cheeked, faced a courtroom filled only with male occupants again today and continued her testimony of alleged relations she had with George L. (Tex) Rickard, famous sport promoter, during September, October, November and December, last year.

It was as a result of the story told preciously by that girl and four or five others that Rickard was indicted on three serious charges, each carrying a prison sentence.

Rickard smiled and bore a general air of confidence as he entered court. The Schenfeld girl was at once called to the stand to continue her direct examination. She discarded her tam o'shanter and coat, showing a white middy blouse underneath. Her plaid skirt reached just below her knees.

SHE ARRANGED MEETING.

In response to questions the girl told of meeting Rickard after his arrest on January 21, 1923. She said she had arranged the meeting herself by calling Rickard on the telephone. She and her girl chum, Nellie Gaiko, were met by a chauffeur near Madison Square Garden. When they got into the motor car they found Rickard there. He took them for a drive through Central Park.

The girl said Rickard gave her and her chum $20 each during the automobile ride.

Rickard, according to the witness said:

"Isn't it too bad Alice Rork (the original complaining witness against the sporting man) had to tell such lies about me?"

A few days later, the witness said she met Rickard alone and he again took her for an automobile ride through Central Park. She said she told Rickard that a Brooklyn society had taken Nellie Gaiko away.

TOLD TO KEEP SILENCE.

"Mr. Rickard told me to keep away from the Garden (Madison Square Garden) for a while," continued the girl. "He said he would try to get Nellie out. He said I should not tell about anything or they would send me away, too."

On this ride, the girl said, Rickard gave her $10.

SEES JUDGESHIPS GIVEN "REPENTANT SINNERS"

Criticism of the motives which have influenced Governors in appointing Judges to the Superior Court bench was made today by William G. Thompson of the Boston Bar Association in a speech before the Legislature's Committee on Judiciary. He asserted a number of judgeships have gone "to repentant sinners who had shown that they saw the error of their way by evincing a strong desire for public office." He spoke in favor of the recommendations made by Attorney General Allen.

A SMART new version of the three-piece costume is designed in brown romain crepe and cream-colored georgette. A line of embroidery reaching only across the shoulders in front simulates a yoke, and the cape is gathered at the top to make a standing ruffled collar. The straight one-piece frock is belted at the normal waistline with a narrow string girdle. Strips of the brown romain crepe reaching up on the bodice alternate with strips of cream-colored georgette reaching down on the skirt, and these panel-like sections are outlined in brown silk embroidery.

EMBROIDERY in black silk makes attractive the semi-bolero jacket of a taffour of reseda green whipcord, while a round girlish neckline and a flint and girdle of black satin link this jacket with the latest mode. An entirely new note is introduced in the skirt when an inset of black satin over the hips is made to terminate in an unusual hemline arrangement.

LYNN SHOE DEALER HELD FOR CONCEALING ASSETS

Serim Schoffield, wholesale Lynn shoe dealer, found bound and gagged in his store at No. 324 Broad street on the night of March 1 a year ago, when he told police thieves had taken $5,000 from his safe, was held in $1,000 bail in Federal Court today for a hearing on the charge of concealing assets in a bankruptcy case and also awaiting falsely concerning his schedule. Following the alleged robbery Schoffield was petitioned into bankruptcy by creditors. It is alleged the robbery was faked.

Suit has been filed in New York where Mrs. Chapman occupies an apartment at No. 207 West One Hundred and Seventh street.

The late preacher's son is believed to be in Mexico.

The Chapmans have a young child living with his mother.

LIQUOR STOLEN FROM MEDFORD PHARMACY

Two Men Arrested. Were About to Flee From Store, Police Say

Burglars broke into the drug store of John H. Abearn, Washington and Dudley streets, Medford, today, stole a quantity of liquor and departed. Later the robbery was discovered by the police and Abearn notified.

In the meantime Patrolmen Roland of the Medford force came upon a broken jug which had contained brandy lying in the street near Dudley barn. He had noticed a few minutes before two young men apparently drunk. The jug bore the Abearn label. Roland notified the police and started a search for the two drunks.

While this was going on Abearn and two police officers went to the looted drug store. As they entered two men attempted to flee. They were arrested and gave their names as Napoleon La Forge, Fall River, and William Demanlig, Bowdoin street, Boston. In the Malden district court they were held in $2,000 each for hearing Friday.

The police say they were the same men Roland had seen just before the discovery of the broken brandy jug, and that they had returned to the drug store, lured by the quality of the liquor they had found there.

Holyoke School Head Bars Knickers in Class Rooms

Holyoke, March 22—Principal Howard G. Conant of the Holyoke High School has no particular objection to girl pupils wearing knicker suits to school.

Only—if they do they must do their studying in the school gymnasium.

The principal has announced that any girl who appears at the school attired in knickers will be banished to the gymnasium for the day. The "gym," he says, and not the classroom, is the proper place for such garb.

WOMAN CAUGHT IN TRAP DIES OF TORTURE

Battles Five Hours in Mud and Water After Boat Is Overturned

Algomac, Mich., March 22—Hours of torture, in which Mrs. Joseph Sears, seventy-two-year-old trapper, struggled against a muskrat trap in mud and water, were revealed with the finding of the woman's body in the flats here.

One of her own traps had snared her, and a boat from which she was baiting it tipped over and floated away.

For at least five hours the woman floundered in the icy water and mud. To extricate herself, she attempted to bite off her right wrist near where the steel trap gripped her.

Unable to stand or lie down, she maintained a stooping position until the cold air and icy water drove her into a frenzied fight in which she almost tore all her clothing from her back. So firm was the grip of the trap that all her struggles only forced her deeper into the mire. Her body was half-submerged in mud when found. Death was due to cold and exposure, the coroner's office said.

WOULD HAVE STATE LICENSE MILK FIRMS

Necessity of an investigation to determine the need of laws in this State to protect the farmers from irresponsible milk firms which fail, leaving a trail of unpaid bills in their wake, was today recommended to the legislative Committee on Ways and Means by Commissioner of Agriculture Arthur W. Gilbert. Dr. Gilbert said such an investigation would probably determine milk contractors ought to be licensed.

ASKS TIME AND GETS CLEW TO MURDER

Father Finds Watch Stranger Carried Was Owned by Son Who Was Slain

By Associated Press.

Pasadena, Cal., March 22.—Sevano Telles stopped a stranger on the street and asked him the time. Today the stranger is in jail.

The stranger drew from his pocket a gold watch which, Telles later declared, had been the property of his son Martin Telles, seventeen years old, whose body, stripped and with the head crushed, had been found in a reservoir.

Telles examined the man more thoroughly. The clothes he wore had been worn by his son when he left home March 4.

The stranger was arrested. He gave the name of Esedereo Moreno and said the watch and clothes had been given to him by another man. Moreno is held in connection with the murder.

MOTION PICTURE NEWS

By FRIEDA DAVIS

THERE are some who deplore the present-day tendency among motion picture producers to give us all-star casts for some of these stars are, necessarily, obliged to stay around in the background some of the time. Everyone cannot have the limelight. On the other hand there is nothing better than such a production, if one can persuade good actors to show what they can do with small parts.

"Beyond the Rainbow," the Robertson-Cole film at the Modern and Beacon Theatres this week, is a case in point. The advertisement announces blandly that the picture has sixteen stars. This is saying a good deal and advancing many leading players to stardom—where they have never been before. There are, possibly, half a dozen actual stars, but the sixteen players are all actors and actresses of the first water. And after all, it's their playing that counts, not their rank. I've seen stars completely overshadowed by an unknown someone handling a "bit."

UNUSUAL STORY.

The story, "Beyond the Rainbow," is by the director, William Christy Cabanne, and is an unusual one. Virginia Gardner, a flapper who cannot join in the dance given by her parents because she is not yet "out," gets fun out of the affair in her own way. She has notes delivered to various of the guests, saying "Consult your conscience. Your secret is common gossip." It is astonishing how many otherwise respectable guests have secrets that they had just as soon were not common gossip. When Edward Mallory, one of the guests, is shot mysteriously, each of these guilty consciences thinks that the blame will be put on him, innocent though he may be.

The heroine of the play is Marion Taylor, a stenographer, who has agreed to dress up and be one of the guests at the Gardner dinner dance in order that another girl may become jealous of Marion's partner. She receives one of the notes, but hardly gets upset over it, since she has no feeling about her masquerade. She has done it to raise money to send her sick brother to the mountains. At the dance she meets the hero, who is, for a time, suspected of firing the shot.

ADMITS HE IS BARBER.

In the end it develops that Mallory was only slightly wounded, and that the shot had taught him a lot about himself that he didn't realize before. The French count, receiver of a "consult your conscience" note, admits that he is a Greek barber; the secretary admits that he is an ex-convict, and so it goes. Marion Taylor comes out of it all right and she and Major Bruce end the action of the piece against a rainbow in the Adirondacks.

Hillie Dove has the role of the stenographer and handles it with her usual poise and calmness. Miss Dove makes an excellent leading lady of the Marion Taylor type, for she looks more genuine than do most players. Attractive though she is, she can hardly be raised as an actress. She is unable to "put over" the emotion that she feels, or should feel.

George Fawcett as the father of the Gardner household stands out in the lineup of players, needless to say. Mr. Fawcett has the ability to get out of any situation the greatest amount of comedy there is in it. Helen Ware is seen as the society mother and gives a very acceptable performance, though not a startling one.

ROSE COGHLAN APPEARS.

Rose Coghlan is seen for a few moments as a boarding house keeper, which scarcely gives her opportunities to show what she can do. She does, however, get as much out of the situation as any one could, and possibly puts into a few feet of film a trifle more color than could most.

It is Edmund Breese who counts in the cast. He doesn't appear until two-thirds of the film has run, but from his entrance on he makes himself felt. As a police commissioner he shines. For the rest we have Diana Allen as Frances Gardner, a confirmed flirt who is rather dazzled by the French Count and his talk of princes and Monte Carlo, and villas in Southern France; Marguerite Courtot as a nursery-governess who spends her time trying to prove the secretary's innocence generally; Walter Miller, the secretary, who causes Miss Courtot so much difficulty; Huntley Gordon as the model young man, the hero, Major Bruce; Virginia Lee as Mallory's finances; Clara Bow as the flapper who is to blame for the mix-up in general, and last but by no means least, Harry T. Morey, who is seen as Mallory.

A METRO FARCE.

The companion picture on the bill at the Modern and Beacon is "I Can Explain," starring Gareth Hughes, and in this feature Hughes scores for the first time since his Tommy of "Sentimental Tommy," though his role is of very different calibre. "I Can Explain" is a farce, pure and simple.

Hughes is an innocent young man who seems dogged by circumstantial evidence. His partner thinks he—Hughes—is in love with the former's wife, and from then on the action starts, carrying the company from New York to Arunium, a South American country in the throes of daily revolutions, up to the mountains with a group of bandits and back to Broadway.

BONUS BILL IS READY FOR BALLOT

Rollcall on Measure eSt for Tomorrow After Debate in House

Washington, March 22.—A resolution making tomorrow a special suspension day in the house so as to consider the soldiers' bonus bill under a suspension of the rules was approved today by the rules committee without a normal record vote.

Chairman Campbell of the rules committee said the House would meet at 11 a.m., an hour earlier than usual, and that there would be an hour's debate on the resolution before the bonus bill was reached. Only a majority vote would be necessary for the adoption of the resolution.

Chairman Forney of the ways and means committee will control two hours of the debate and Representative Garner, of Texas, ranking Democrat on that committee, will control the other two hours. Representative Campbell said Representative Fordney would place one hour of his time at the disposal of Representative Treadway of Massachusetts, who opposes the bill.

Once the rollcall began, party lines were expected to disappear. In fact, those who had undertaken to sound sentiment in that direction thought there would be more opposition votes from the Republicans than from the Democratic side. Some of those who planned to support the bill said privately they were not satisfied with all of its provisions, but would vote for it if convinced that it was the best legislation that could be brought before the House at this time.

Democratic leaders planned to centre fire on the resolution to make Thursday a special suspension day. This resolution was to be presented tomorrow immediately after the House convened.

Its adoption—and only a majority vote would be necessary for that—would preclude the possibility of the minority offering a motion to recommit. It was their expressed desire to offer a motion to send the bill back to the Ways and Means Committee with instructions to reinsert the cash bonus for which the new bank plan provision was substituted.

MAYOR CURLEY OUTLINES CITY PLAN

Likens the White Bequest to That Carnegie Made to His Native Village

By JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor of Boston.

Andrew Carnegie, in his deed transmitting $2,500,000 in 5 per cent. bonds to the Dunfermline trustees, declared it his wish that "the money should be used in attempts to make the monotonous lives of the toiling masses at Dunfermline more of sweetness and light, to give them, especially the young, more charm, more happiness, some elevating conditions of life which elsewhere we have denied, that the child of my native town, looking back in after years, however far from home it may have roamed, will feel that simply by virtue of being such, life has been made happier and better. If this be the fruit of your labors, you will have succeeded, if not, you will have failed."

It requires no stretch of the imagination to see, underlying the terms of the George R. White bequest to the City of Boston, a sentiment similar to that which actuated the mind of Andrew Carnegie in his gift to his native village.

A VITAL MATTER.

Boston, standing as it does on the threshold of the second century of its existence as a city, presents possibilities for usefulness to future generations of such tremendous value that I consider the formulation and adoption of a definite program a vital matter.

The City Planning Board, after a long study and fortified by the searching investigation conducted and data collected, has submitted a report and a recommendation providing for the first step in the preparation of a Comprehensive City Plan.

The tentative draft submitted by the City Planning Board presents such a fruitful field for study that it is my purpose to organize at once a committee representative of every element, religious, industrial, commercial, financial, labor and educational, not only to study the plan outlined, but to amend and strengthen wherever necessary, so that any and all waste and duplication may be minimized and that a constructive program worthy of the city of Boston may be adopted and pursued in the years that are to come.

SHOULD PROTECT HOMES.

Such comprehensive city plans should guide and promote the commercial and industrial development of the municipality; through its zoning ordinance it should protect homes and enhance property values; it should determine the distribution and treatment of the spaces devoted to streets, railways, waterways and all means of transportation and communication.

It should indicate the proper arrangement and grouping of our public buildings; it should develop our park and playground system, and finally, it should suggest ways and means of increasing municipal revenues and reducing municipal expenditures, in order that our present capital debt and municipal administration in Boston shall no longer serve as a deterrent to industry already located here, or as a barrier to industries seeking a fruitful field for investment, which will now located elsewhere.

I am aware that the term city planning is too often understood to mean "the city beautiful," whereas the detail in city planning is one in which all city activities shall be so correlated and coordinated and harmonized as to reduce the conflict of purpose and the waste of constructive effort to a minimum, thus making it possible for the citizens of the municipality to attain the maximum of efficiency, of health and of enjoyment of life.

BEAUTY AND ECONOMY.

The demands of beauty are often found in large measure to be identical with those of economy and efficiency and it is the aim of the city planner to appreciate and grasp the aesthetic opportunities which present themselves in conjunction with the most rigorously practical solution of any civic problem.

That city planning pays has been demonstrated in Chicago, where the widening of Michigan avenue is estimated to have added to the value of property along that street a total of $35,000,000, while new buildings fronting on the work, now under construction or projected, amount to $100,000,000. The improvement of Twelfth street or Roosevelt road increased frontage values to the amount of $2,000,000.

This increase in values should yield annually in taxes more than $2,500,000, yet the entire improvement has cost but about $23,000,000. It is further estimated that ten years' work on the part of the Chicago Plan Commission has directly resulted in an increase in city property values of more than $100,000,000.

The working out of a Comprehensive City Plan for the city of Boston is a problem for the best architectural and engineering skill available. In every sense of the word it would look to the creation of "works of public utility and beauty" as prescribed by the terms of the will of the late George R. White, as de from religion, political, educational, and other purposes which he felt it was the duty of the city, in the ordinary course of events, to provide.

(This is the second of a series of articles written exclusively for the Boston American by Mayor Curley. The third will be printed tomorrow.)

THOUSANDS AT MEETING CALL FOR BONUS

Early Passage of Act Demanded by Speakers at Monster Gathering on Common

Five thousand patriotic citizens braved the nipping March winds to attend the mass meeting on Boston Common, the second to be held under the auspices of the Boston American, to demand that Congress pass the adjusted compensation bill without further delay.

Eminent citizens from all communities of Massachusetts, representing every walk of public life, were in attendance to voice the rising sentiment of Massachusetts against further neglect of the nation's war heroes, and to predict the retirement to private life of those political leaders at Washington who attempt further to thwart the desires of the people.

"I am sure that the congressman from Massachusetts who stands in the way of the enactment of the adjusted compensation bill will find himself somewhere else besides in Washington two years hence," declared Judge Michael J. Murray, of the Municipal Court, chief speaker at the meeting.

BILL MUST BE PASSED.

"The bill must pass. The American people are aroused. On the statute books of the nation this law must find a place, and it will also find a ready welcome and a generous re-echo in the hearts of the great mass of the American people."

Captain David L. Brickley, acting Mayor of Boston in the absence of Mayor Curley, saluted "Teddy" Roosevelt, Jr., for his desertion of the American Legion's bonus plans. "He is one Roosevelt that is dead in France," declared Captain Brickley. "I cannot understand the action of Teddy Roosevelt. I do not know him in France at the close of the war and acting as aide to the commander of the legion, he had a different mind."

Acting Mayor Brickley then read a letter from Mayor Curley in which he regretted his absence from the meeting.

RESOLUTIONS ARE ADOPTED.

Harland A. MacIlhettes, Mayor of Lynn, and Councilor Sargent, of the 5th Division, in presenting the resolutions demanding that Congress pass the bonus bill at once, said:

"I am not here as Mayor or Councilor, but as one of the humblest citizens willing to do our bit for the veterans regardless of political entanglements."

BLACKSMITH KNITTER GETS MANY CHALLENGES

New England women are not to be outdone by the men. At least not in their own line of work.

One look has been enough to satisfy the throngs that have been coming to see the knitting. Everyone who has visited the Fore River shipsmith has admitted that his work is in a class by itself.

JAPS TO FIGHT FOR SIBERIAN TRADE

London, March 22 (By International News Service).—The Japanese attending the meeting of allied experts who are preparing the draft of the Agenda for the Genoa Economic Conference today made proposals designed to safeguard Japan's commercial interests in Russia. The action of the Japanese experts indicates that Japan is going to insist on the question of Siberian trade when the Genoa Conference opens. There is every prospect of a clash between the Japanese and Russians at the meeting.

R.I. WORKERS AT FAIRLAWN ARE SHOT AT

Stones Thrown and 35 Are Put to Flight, According to Pawtucket Police

Pawtucket, R. I., March 22.—Workers in some of the mills affected by the strike were attacked by strike sympathizers in the Fairlawn district today on their arrival in electric cars from Providence. The police say stones were thrown and revolvers fired and that about thirty-five workers were forced to flee.

So far as the police have learned no one was injured.

The scene of the trouble is about a mile from any of the mills affected by the strike and the workers were in the habit of transferring there to a local car.

The strike sympathizers were waiting for them today and made their attack soon after leaving the Providence car.

Pickets operated in numbers at the Dunnell branch of the United States Finishing Company plant today and until workers complained that they were assailed with abuse when they approached the mill gates.

A detail of soldiers then was called and drove off all the pickets except thirty-five.

Lawrence Strike to Be Left to Workers

Providence, March 22.—President Thomas F. McMahon of the United Textile Workers of America announced today that his organization would leave with the employes themselves the question of whether or not there should be strikes in the mills at Lawrence which have announced wage cuts.

A mass meeting of the workers at the mills affected will be held tomorrow night, Mr. McMahon said, and at that time Organizer John J. Dwan of the U. T. W. will deliver to them a message from President McMahon to the effect that, if they want to strike against the wage cuts, the resources of the organization will be put behind them.

Organizer Thomas, who has been stationed in this city in connection with the strike in Rhode Island, went to Lawrence tomorrow, Mr. McMahon said. He announced that Francis J. Gorman, of Providence, had been appointed a special organizer for the U. T. W., and would go to Lawrence at once to look after the organization's affairs there.

Organizer Thomas, it began, who went to Lawrence yesterday at Mr. McMahon's request, reported to the latter today by telephone and gave him an outline of the situation there. Mr. McMahon would not give the details of the report. He said that Mr. Regan would leave Lawrence at once to go to Ware, Mass., where a strike is also in progress.

George H. Webb, chairman of the State Board of Labor, which appointed the Board of Mediation and Conciliation that has been trying vainly for several weeks to settle the textile strike in Rhode Island, said today he believed the latter body should recess tomorrow until such time as its services are sought by both sides in the controversy or assist in adjusting the questions at issue.

Lawrence Mill Workers to Take Strike Vote

Lawrence, March 22.—Thousands of textile operatives here today awaited arrival of President Thomas McMahon of the textile workers from Pawtucket before definite strike action is taken in connection with the local mill wage cut. Some of the labor organizations have called meetings to take a strike vote.

WEEK'S SECOND FIRE IN U. S. SENATE CHAMBER

MRS. SHAW'S ALIMONY IS CUT TO $5,000

MADRIENNE LA BARRE.

Somerville girl and Follies beauty, named as corespondent in famous case.

New York, March 22.—The alimony granted Mrs. Elinor Shaw, member of a socially prominent Boston family, seeking a divorce from Philip M. Shaw and naming Madrienne La Barre of Somerville, Mass., as corespondent, has been cut again, a corespondent, has again been cut.

Last August Supreme Court Justice Martin awarded her provisional alimony of $200 a week. In October the Appellate Division reduced this to $50 a month.

Now former Supreme Court Justice Lehman, appointed as referee to investigate Shaw's income, has recommended that she receive $5,000 yearly, or less than $100 a week.

Such is the latest development in this remarkable marital tangle in which the wife of a man rated as a millionaire testified she has had to pawn her jewels to buy food, while her husband lavishes attention and costly presents on a newly found girl friend, his secretary.

Shaw, a man of fifty, is prominent in social life. He is a member of several exclusive clubs, and head of the banking firm of Philip Shaw & Co., at No. 5 William street.

Mrs. Shaw, several years his junior, was formerly Miss Elsie Jordan of Boston. It was her second marriage. In 1901 she obtained a divorce in Reno from William Moseve Jordan of that city. She was married to Shaw in 1902.

ONION 'FAMINE' IN BOSTON TO BE RELIEVED

Freighters Speeding Here From Egypt With 200,000 Bushels of Crop

Boston has been dry-eyed suffering from an onion draught.

For a month there hasn't been enough onions in the Hub to shake a tear from a crocodile and they say crocodile tears come easy.

Reason: Blight on Texas onion crop.

Now comes relief. Two freighters from Egypt speeding Bostonward loaded with "good relief." Something like 100,000 bushels of onions aboard each. Captain, crew and ship's cats spilling so many tears they're wearing leather boots.

Down on the Boston waterfront commission men are smelling furiously. First sign of onion-scented breeze is expected to drive them frantic. So long since they've smelled an onion they are trembling at the nostrils. Then—there's money in onions.

British steamship Croxteth Hall is due on March 26.

American freighter Hog Island due on April 20.

The nervous copy reader and "head of the desk," who battle stews and things furiously at noon each day, shed tears of joy just reading this.

SUSPEND FIREMEN IN FIGHT INDEFINITELY

Martin J. Flaherty and John T. Lynch, members of the city fire department attached to the Benning-ton street station, East Boston, left the station at 9 o'clock today under sentences of indefinite suspension from duty, due to charges of "conduct prejudicial to good order and discipline."

The sentences were ordered by direction of Acting Fire Commissioner Manning as the result of a fist fight the two are alleged to have engaged in at the station last Monday. Flaherty is a boxeman attached to Engine 3, while Lynch is a ladderman

GENERAL STRIKE CALLED BY 30 DANISH UNIONS

Copenhagen, March 22 (By the Associated Press.)—Thirty Danish trade unions have voted to declare a general strike, beginning April 1 in retaliation to the general lockout which was declared February 15, affecting nearly all industries and about 150,000 employes. The thirty-sixth day of the lockout finds all public works closely guarded and soldiers protecting voluntary workers.

FINDS THE SALUTEE IS ALSO KEPT BUSY

Youngstown, O., March 22.—Mayor George L. Oles, who recently ordered 11 police to salute him, today ended his tempest by rescinding the order, saying he was "tired of saluting." They've kept me so busy saluting I haven't had time to do anything else," he said.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to look young you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your trouble will tell you ninety per cent. of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and cleansing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color, 15c and 30c.—Advertisement.

Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the unfailing remedy in such cases. Thousands of American women will testify to the fact who have regained health and strength by it use. COUCH SPRINGS MAKE RADIO AERIALS

Boston American Expert Gives Valuable Tips on Setting Up Apparatus

By A. B. HOAG

The most difficult part of installing an ordinary radiophone receiver that is purchased complete is the work of putting up the aerials. Do not be perturbed, however, as anyone who knows how to work a screw driver and a hammer will not be out of his depth here.

Some form of aerial is necessary before any receiving can be done, but it need not be as complicated as the aerials which you see at sending stations. Ordinary umbrella frames and steel couch springs have been used more or less satisfactorily as aerials, even when they were not placed out of doors.

A copper wire of say No. 14 size, bare or insulated, about sixty feet long will make an excellent aerial for your receiver. You will need also enough additional wire to run a connection to your receiver and another to the ground on your water or steam pipe.

MUST BE INSULATED.

The aerial and the "lead in" wire, as the connection from aerial to receiver is called, must be insulated from all contact with other objects such as trees, the side of the house, etc.

These insulations should be purchased from your dealer when you buy the wire, and you will need to study your own particular conditions to know the degree of insulation you will need.

The aerial should be set as high as possible. If you live in an apartment house with a flat roof you should be able to put your aerial up there, being sure that it doesn't interfere with your neighbor's washing. The lead in would then be carried down the outside of the building to your apartment (do not fail off the roof in doing this).

If you live in an ordinary one-or-two-family house with sixty feet of vacancy to the side or back, and a convenient tree, garage, barn, or flag-pole at the other end of this sixty odd feet, you are in luck.

AS HIGH AS POSSIBLE.

Simply string your aerial from house to tree or garage like a clothesline, as high above the ground as possible.

If you have not room enough to string a sixty-foot wire without cutting a hole in your neighbor's house, you can put your aerial up in a horizontal shape effect, about thirty feet to each arm.

Finally, many amateurs have reported success when they have simply strung sixty feet of wire back and forth just under the roof of a blind garret. Remember that the wireless waves travel through the ether, and that the ether pervades everything.

At either end of the aerial where it is supported remember to include an insulator.

MAKE CLEAN CONNECTION.

The lead in wire should be connected somewhere between the two insulators. Make a clean, tight connection by scraping both wires with a sharp knife, solder if possible, and wind with friction tape or adhesive plaster.

Carry the lead in wire to wherever you plan to keep your receiver. Continue to use insulators every where the wire is likely to come in contact with anything. Then attach the wire to the binding post on your apparatus which is marked "aerial" or "antennae," and you have completed this part of the game.

Of course, you can get an expert to come over and do the whole installation for you, but unless he's a good friend he will expect to be paid for it, and you won't have had much fun watching him do it that you would have by doing it yourself.

Tomorrow I will take up the rest of the installation. This should answer a great many letters which have come in asking for details concerning the purchase and installation of instruments.

If there is some special problem which you wish cleared up in connection with any of your receiving questions to make drop a line. Make yourself at home here.

Question Box for Radio Fans

Address all communications for this column to Radio Editor, Boston American, No. 50 Sudbury street, Boston, Mass. Questions will not be answered by mail or telephone.

Q.—I am a radio amateur and am building a 3,000 meter loose coupler which I intend to use in connection with an audion panel. Would a 2,000 meter loose coupler be able to tune 360 meters so as to get the Amrad station or others in the vicinity of Boston? Would a high tension condenser be all right to use as a fixed condenser in a receiving outfit?—P. R., Roxbury.

A.—You should have no difficulty in tuning to 360 meters. Without a letter description of your condenser it would be impossible to say whether it could be so used.

Q.—I have a Clapp Eastman regenerative receiver using a variocoupler, two variometers and a 23-plate variable condenser with one step of amplification, vacuum tube type. I bought the parts and wired them myself. I can get radiophone, but it is howling and makes too much noise altogether. I have used all voltages on the plate with no better result. Could you give me a hook-up that would be sure to work with no howling?—F. L., Newmarket, N. H.

A.—Your difficulty, as you suggest, is probably with your hook-up. In a few days a good hook-up will be shown in diagram in this column.

Q.—I am sending with this a rough drawing of my receiving outfit as it now stands. Please tell me how I may improve on it to get messages at 360 meters. The capacity is 3,500 meters. As it is now I can only get local calls, and what I really want is to get some of the Boston American news and concerts. —E. E. S., Providence, R. I.

A.—Your diagram was a good one. I suggest that in place of the crystal detector you use a vacuum tube detector with a fixed condenser.

DENIES BUTLER HAD ROMANCE WITH GIRL

Father of Pittsburgh Society Maid Says Report Is "Ridiculous"

Pittsburgh, March 22.—J. Albert McKay, father of Virginia C. McKay, mentioned in connection with an alleged romance with Albert Probst, former butler at the exclusive Rolling Rock Club at Ligonier, Pa., today declared this statement to the International News Service:

"The connection of my daughter's name with Probst, who is unknown to her, is ridiculous and absurd. His mental condition is in question before the Federal authorities, who will determine the same. That is all I have today."

Mrs. McKay, who answered the telephone, first declared the mention of her daughter's name in connection with Probst was "The most infamous thing I had ever heard of."

Mrs. McKay was asked if there was any truth in the report of a romance between her daughter and Probst. She declared such a thing impossible and said she did not understand how such a report could have originated.

Orders Comfortable Quarters For Probst

New York, March 22.—Still confined in Ellis Island, but not in the psychopathic ward, August ("Archie") Probst, society butler formerly employed by the Rolling Rock Club, near Pittsburgh, today was awaiting the decision of Federal Judge Knox on his application for release on bail.

Probst's attorney, Bernard H. Sandler, during the hearing before Judge Knox, said Probst had "was changed a troth" with Miss Virginia Craigie McKay, daughter of a well-known Pittsburgh family, and charged that after that he was kidnaped and taken to Ellis Island, where he was confined in the psychopathic ward. Judge Knox ruled that pending decision Probst should be given comfortable quarters on the Island.

For over sixty years our Mothers before us have relied upon it to promptly stop all our coughs. We have passed many a night in peace and comfort thru its immediate soothing and healing action which otherwise would have been spent in restlessness and misery combating a nasty cough.

You know how quickly it relieves the dry soreness of an inflamed throat, how the huskiness and hoarseness disappear before we realize it. We have used it to take away bad bad taste we sometimes have in the morning. It not only takes it away but makes us feel better and more like approaching the work of the day—so please—Remember to bring the large size bottle of Gray's Syrup of Red Spruce Gum. WIPE OUT THREE TOWNS FOR RESERVOIR

Dr. Kelley Outlines Plan for $60,000,000 Water Supply for Greater Boston

The wiping out of three towns in Western Massachusetts and the destruction of scores of churches, schools and dwellings and many miles of railroad and State highways are part of the plan recommended today by State Health Commissioner Eugene R. Kelley to provide Greater Boston from a water shortage.

The three towns are Enfield, Prescott and Greenwich, in the Swift and Ware River valleys.

Dr. Kelley today told the legislative committee on Water Supply that the State must build against the future. He said that in ten years Boston's normal growth will have wiped out the present available water supply.

Fifteen years will be required to build the great system of dams, reservoirs and giant tunnel to bring water to Boston from the river valleys, he said. The three townships would be wiped out by this giant scheme. The construction cost alone would be $60,000,000.

State Engineer Xavier F. Goodnough said that in twenty-five years the Greater Boston consumption of water has increased from 85,000,000 to 127,000,000 gallons a day. The per capita consumption has increased from 88 to 105 gallons a day, he said.

Goodnough said the Ware River valley alone would be expected to yield 23,000,000 gallons a day.

The new reservoir would cover thirty-nine square miles, Goodnough said, and would have a holding capacity of 410,000,000,000 gallons. About 2,000 people would be driven out of their homes by the new reservoir.

The giant pipe line would carry the new supply into the Wachusett reservoir which now supplies the Metropolitan District.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON DOINGS OF BOSTON SOCIETY

Smart Set Is Well Represented at Chestnut Hill Tennis Tournament

Miss Edith Sigourney is but one of the many Boston society women competing in the tennis tournament being held this week at the Chestnut Hill. Miss Sigourney is the daughter of Mrs. Henry Sigourney of Beacon street.

MISS EDITH SIGOURNEY

By BETTY ALDEN

SOCIETY continues to form a goodly portion of the spectators at the national women's indoor lawn tennis tournament being held this week at the Chestnut Hill covered courts under the auspices of the Longwood Cricket Club.

Nor does Boston's smart set lack a notable representation among participants in the fight for "net" supremacy. Edith Sigourney, the daughter of Mrs. Henry Sigourney of Beacon street, is one of the star players, and on Monday, the opening day of the match, she defeated Mrs. Culver McWilliams of Cedarhurst, L. I., allowing the visiting competitor only two games out of the two sets.

Miss Sigourney, whose skill on the ice is not unknown to followers of the sport, was seen on the courts a good bit with Isabella Mumford, daughter of Mrs. George S. Mumford of Chestnut Hill. Miss Mumford, who, by the way, holds a prominent office in the Junior League, met and defeated Miss Cornelia Burgess on the opening day of the tournament.

Apropos of the Sigourney family, only recently members of Boston's first family contingent evinced a most decided flutter of interest when the news came that Edith's younger sister, the vivacious Mary Sigourney, had become engaged to Lieutenant-Commander Rochfort Yerburg Lovelace, Royal Navy of England. Talking of the betrothal came from Bermuda, where Mary, accompanied by her mater, is at present sojourning, and Mary's young lieutenant is stationed. He is attached to H. M. S. Cambrian. I understand that Mary, who has brightened up many a charity function with her clever eccentric dancing and saxaphone playing, met her fiance last Winter on the tropical island whence came the news of the engagement, and last Summer the young people met again when the naval officer arrived in Plymouth. At any rate, the versatile young woman, who is a member of the 1916-17 Sewing Circle, as well as of the Vincent and Chilton Clubs, is being flooded with no end of congratulations, and I presume that when she and her mother return to Boston not a few functions will be given in her honor.

There is a decided Boston interest in the news that Junius Spencer Morgan, Jr., of New York, son of J. Pierpont Morgan, and a partner of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., will leave soon for England, where he will be associated with the firm of Morgan, Grenfell & Co., the British branch of the New York banking house.

Young Morgan, who obtained his sheepskin from Harvard in 1914, is a member of the Harvard Club here, but Boston has a closer interest than that, for Mr. Morgan married Miss Louise Converse, daughter of the Frederick Converses of Boston. The marriage of the young people took place about seven years ago. Needless to say, the ceremonial, which was solemnized in June at the St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Dedham, was one of the most brilliant nuptial events of that year. Not only was the bride a member of one of Boston's most prominently connected families, but the bridegroom's mother, prior to her marriage to J. P. Morgan, was Miss Jane Grew, daughter of Mrs. Henry S. Grew of Boston.

Although only 300 coveted invitations were issued for the all-important event, the wedding was one of the most widely-paragraphed of the season, its very exclusiveness making it all the more interesting.

Put to return to Junius Spencer Morgan, Jr., and his plans for departure to England, I understand that the young man will follow the example of his father, who worked for several years in the British bank of the firm in order to familiarize himself with British banking. He and the former Louise Converse, whose New York home is at No. 30 East Thirty-sixth street, expect to remain in England for two or three years. Their country place is at Locust Valley, near that of his fathr.

I note that tomorrow Mrs. L. Carteret Fenno will open her home at No. 258 Beacon street, at 4 o'clock, when Miss Neva Boyd, director of the training school in Chicago, will give a talk on the recreation work of the French settlements. The affair is being sponsored by the Boston Social Union.

"SPOON RIVER" POET MASTERS SUED BY WIFE

Chicago, March 22. — Poetry penned years ago by Edgar Lee Masters, author of "Spoon River Anthology," was cited as the basis for court action here, wherein Mrs. Helen Jenkins Masters was granted a decree of separate maintenance by Judge Ira Bayner, it became known today.

Mrs. Masters told the judge the poet deserted her March 1, 1919, and has refused to support her and their two daughters. She said that, while he was traveling in Egypt and Europe, collecting material for his writings, she was compelled to open a boarding house, in order to make a livelihood and educate their children.

14 SHIPS BOUND FROM PACIFIC TO BOSTON

Trade Between Coasts Is Growing Fast, With Five Lines Competing

Fourteen big steamships are today headed for Boston from Pacific coast ports, to arrive between March 28 and May 10. In addition to these other vessels are loading on the Pacific, and some of these will sail during the week.

The trade between American Atlantic and Pacific coast ports is increasing at a rate far in excess of the pre-war trade, which was carried on by a single line. Today five lines are competing for the trade and all are doing a big business.

The Nawsco and United American lines have four ships each on the way to Boston. The Luckenbach, Crowell & Thurlow and Isthmian lines each have two ships coming. All these companies have other ships loading and discharging on each coast.

Between March 28 and April 1, inclusive, there will be an arrival here from the Pacific every day.

The ships bring frozen fish, canned fish, canned fruit and vegetables, dried fruits, wool, alfalfa, shingles, boards, mantillings, hides, cotton, etc., and take back manufactured goods of all kinds.

ARBUCKLE ATTORNEYS QUESTION PHYSICIAN

San Francisco, March 22.—Completion of the cross-examination of Dr. William Ophuls, first witness for the prosecution, was before the court today in the second session of testimony in the Roscoe Arbuckle trial.

Dr. Ophuls opened the testimony for the State with the assertion that an internal rupture which caused the death of Miss Virginia Rappe, film actress, after a party in Arbuckle's hotel suite, might have been due to the application of external force. The film comedian is being tried for the third time on manslaughter charges growing out of her death.

"Dry hands"

Many men and women cannot use ordinary toilet soaps on account of it.

Many women who do housework use rosewater and glycerine to relieve the excessive dryness—but the relief is only temporary. It really makes matters worse.

Cut Out the Drawing and Find a Title for It in the List

Any participant in the Boston American's $5,000 Famous Titles Test who finds himself in need of a Back Picture or two should let the Test Editor know about it before the close of the present week.

The above notice also is intended for any reader who has entered the Test within the past day or two.

The Famous Titles Test is on its nineteenth day and every contestant has a perfect score. Yes? No? Well!

ARTIST WEAKENS.

Signs multiply, say what you will, that the Mr. Artist is weakening, cracking under the strain of four contests in a row. Today's problem is nothing much and if the gifted artist does not begin to do his stuff pretty soon we are bound to have scores of 60 Correct Titles.

You can enter the Famous Titles Test today on even terms with all other contestants if you will begin by cutting out today's Test Drawing and finding a title for it in the List of Titles printed on this page. Notify the Test Editor. Tell him you have just begun. Send along a self-addressed envelope. That is all that is required. No money!

FOR THE BEGINNER.

The beginner is informed that the picture he sees today was drawn to illustrate one of the titles in today's List of Titles. All that the artist had in front of him was the ONE selected title. He was not told whether it was the title of book, song or poem. He did not care. It was not necessary for him to know. His picture was drawn to illustrate, or represent, the title, and only the title.

It frequently will be found that two or more titles in the List or Titles appear to fit the picture. ONE title in the List fits the picture BETTER than any other. THAT title is the Correct Title. Write it on the "title" line in the "box" or coupon below the drawing. Save it. Send in nothing before the close of the Test.

The Famous Titles Test will consist of sixty of these drawings. When the Test is over the Boston American will divide $5,000 in cash among the 219 readers who send in the largest numbers of Correct Titles. These are the prizes:

First Award	$1,000
Second Award	750
Third Award	500

Finds 'Portraits' of Sts. Peter and Paul Hidden in Rome

Rome, March 22—What are believed to be contemporary portraits of St. Peter and St. Paul have been discovered in a hypogeum or underground structure of the Roman epoch. Belief in their authenticity is shared by the well-known archaeologist, Professor Lanfani.

The hypogeum was found in course of excavations for the building of a large garage. It comprises a number of rooms and galleries, a crypt, and a Christian church with marvelous frescoes of a very early date. The professor believes the portraits were painted from life.

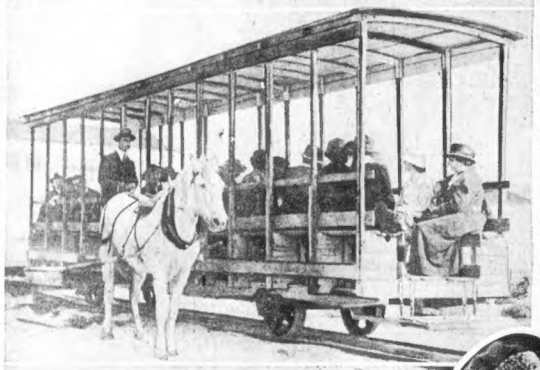
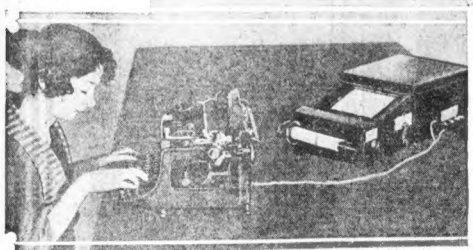
MILLIONAIRE IS APPOINTED JAIL DISHWASHER

THE VERY IDEA! Governor Jacob Preis, Governor of Minnesota, who apparently believes that mixing jurors has the same effect as mixing drinks. His sense of refinement is shocked at the thought of locking up mixed juries over night.

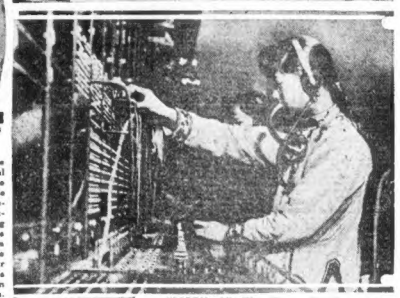


"PLEASE GET ME ENGLAND AND JAPAN!" Mr. Hughes likes to listen over the radiophone, but he will not listen to sound advice on the Four-Pact Treaty. The Secretary of State has become a confirmed radio fan and this photograph was snapped in his office at the State Department. (International)

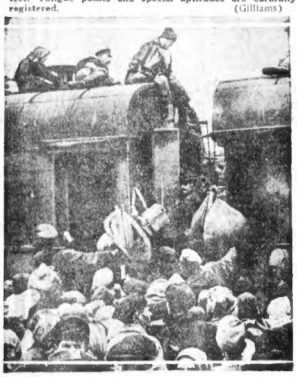


THIS ONE-HORSE RAILROAD Is No Reflection On The Town! Residents of Capos Beach, Fla., are just as proud of their little quarter-mile railroad as most city folk are of their big trolley system. The horse runs alongside of the coach in a friendly fashion. (International)

FAILED TO Dodge Jail! John Duval Dodge, millionaire son of the late John E. Dodge, Detroit auto manufacturer, is nearing the finish of his five-day sentence in the Detroit House of Correction for auto speeding. His task at the prison was washing dishes.

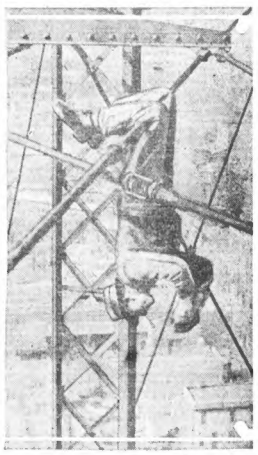


GETTING YOUR NUMBER! This apparatus, electrically operated, tests almost every human capability and is now being used by the Berlin government on applicants for employment. This girl is receiving a typing test. Fatigue points and special aptitudes are carefully registered. (Gilliams)



WHEN THE "INNER MAN" COMES FORTH! This photograph shows starving Russians fighting to get on a train that will take them to the American food relief centres. Russians wait for days at stations to board the relief trains. (International)

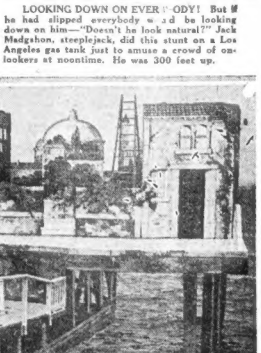
'TWILL DO FOR MISS OR MATRON! Self-colored hand embroidery contributes to the smartness of this charming suit of gray twill. The general appearance of the garment is enhanced by the simplicity and neatness of the tailoring. (Underwood)



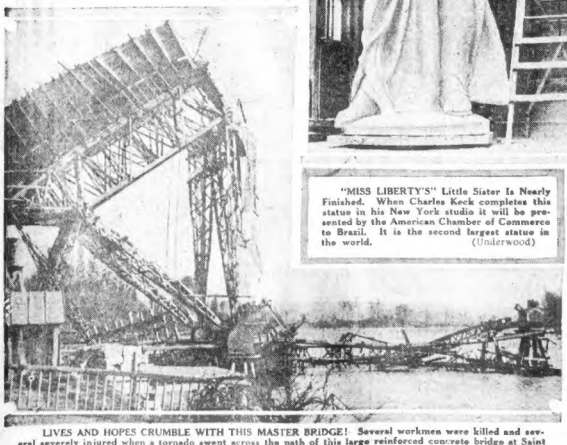
"SORRY, All The Wrong Numbers Are Busy!" The "China" exchange of the San Francisco telephone exchange is a novelty. Chinese subscribers call by name, no numbers being used. (International)

OH GOSH, Oh Golly, Likewise Gee Whiz! Mlle. Tikanows, whose dancing always worries the Paris censors, is going to pack her gowns and costumes and bring the envelope and herself to America. This photograph shows her in graceful pose.

WELL-HEELED! "On your toes" is an admirable slogan, but it is doubtful if anybody could show much pep wearing these Chinese-French shoes. Mrs. Claude Graham-White (Ethel Levy) created quite a stir with them at Miami, Fla. Heels are nine inches high.



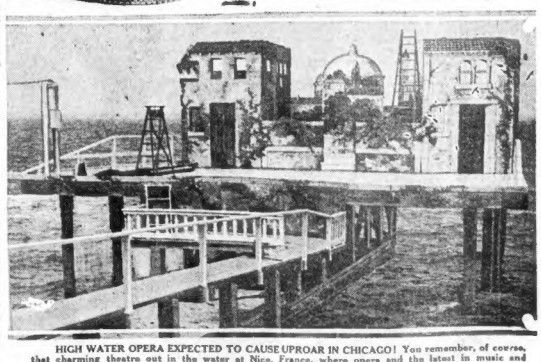
LOOKING DOWN ON EVERYBODY! But if he had slipped everybody would be looking down on him—"Doesn't he look natural?" Jack Madgshon, steeplejack, did this stunt on a Los Angeles gas tank just to amuse a crowd of onlookers at noontime. He was 300 feet up.



LIVES AND HOPES CRUMBLE WITH THIS MASTER BRIDGE! Several workmen were killed and several severely injured when a tornado swept across the path of this large reinforced concrete bridge at Saint Pierre due Vauvray, France, where it spanned the Seine River. The big span was reduced to a tangled mass of twisted iron and broken concrete. The bridge, declared to be the largest of its kind in the world, was nearing completion. (International.)

"MISS LIBERTY'S" Little Sister Is Nearly Finished. When Charles Keck completes this statue in his New York studio it will be presented by the American Chamber of Commerce to Brazil. It is the second largest statue in the world. (Underwood)

YOU CAN'T DISCOURAGE ITALY! The spectre of the ZR-4 and Roma tragedies has failed to frighten the Italian government, for here is the smallest dirigible ever built. It is approximately 117 feet long and 25 feet wide. Lifting capacity is but two-thirds of a ton. Has cruising radius of 112 miles. (International.)



HIGH WATER OPERA EXPECTED TO CAUSE UPROAR IN CHICAGO! You remember, of course, that charming theatre out in the water at Nice, France, where opera and the latest in music and novelties are heard? Well, Chicago pines for something like that. The Edgewater Beach Hotel, which now has an excellent theatre for its patrons in Lake Michigan, plans to enlarge its present show shop (shown above) and produce opera. (Underwood.)

And the girl who had never before seen into Love's live eyes, sparkling and dancing, who climbed up a table-leg at sight of a little gray mouse, who shivered and shrunmied at the mere whisper of the words "knife" or "gun," faced the little warrior, an utter stranger, and his little bow and arrow, the arrow dipped in a potion-bewitched, with smiling eyes and lips bidding him to do his worst—unafraid, taking him at his joking word, with a sort of fluttery idea that a wound at his hands would be anything but pain for either of them.

FINANCE AND BUSINESS

—By B. C. Forbes—

The present J. P. Morgan's son is going to London to gain two or three years' business experience.

Large-scale finance and business are becoming international in their ramifications, and the man who aspires to reach a towering position at the top does well to strive to obtain practical experience in other countries.

As a matter of fact, each of the men who have built up the greatest banking firms in this country enjoyed foreign experience.

The founder of the house of Morgan, Junius Spencer Morgan, the great-grandfather of the young man about to leave for London, first won his financial spurs abroad. While he was located in London he boldly undertook to float a large loan for the French government at a time when France was in sore straits. To the astonishment of more staid European bankers the young American accomplished the feat successfully.

The late J. P. Morgan also spent a lot of his time abroad, and the knowledge he gathered on the spot helped him to become the foremost international banker American had ever known and, later, the most powerful private banker in the world.

* * *

The present J. P. Morgan followed exactly the course his son is now about to follow. "Jack" Morgan gathered experience by serving in the London branch of the Morgan firm, and while abroad also became acquainted with how things were done in Paris, where there is another branch of the Morgan organization.

Junius Spencer Morgan is twenty-nine years old. He is a clean-cut, upstanding, democratic young fellow, made a creditable record in the war, is popular with the Morgan employes and is more interested in business than in society—you very rarely see either his name or his wife's name in the society columns.

* * *

The late Jacob H. Schiff, who developed his firm, Kuhn, Loeb & Company, until it rivalled Morgan & Company, also had early experience in Europe, although he came to this country when still a young man. Every one of his older partners, including Felix M. Warburg, Paul M. Warburg and Otto H. Kahn, also laid foundations abroad for their future careers.

James Speyer, head of Speyer & Company, although born in this country, was also put through a course similar to that which young Morgan is embarking upon.

* * *

The president of the largest industrial organization in the world, James A. Farrell, won his place largely because of his exhaustive knowledge of foreign markets. His father, a sea-faring man, used to take young Jim sailing of the seas with him, and the lad developed intense interest in studying foreign countries, foreign peoples and later, foreign markets. He traveled everywhere and imbibed knowledge as a sponge absorbs water. When the young mammoth steel corporation wanted to break into foreign markets, Farrell proved himself the ablest man for the uphill task. The record he made brought him into line for the presidency of the corporation. He stepped into the high office from the presidency of the export division of the company.

* * *

The president of the Standard Oil Company, Walter C. Teagle, also made it his business to get acquainted with international markets early in his career and he has traveled a great deal in foreign countries ever since. He is almost as familiar with oil matters in far-off lands as with conditions on this side of the Atlantic.

* * *

A great many of our conspicuously successful financial and business leaders visited Europe time and more or less frequently, always with a view to broadening their knowledge and equipping themselves for extending the operations of their organizations. Judge Gary visits some foreign country virtually every year. Edward L. Doheny is constantly visiting not only his vast oil fields in Mexico, but countries overseas.

Thomas W. Lamont has become a globe-trotter on business. John H. Patterson periodically investigates foreign outlets for his product. Albert Dibdin covers enough mileage every year to encircle the globe. Samuel Vauclain has made a big hit during the last year or two by his order-getting trips to Europe. Any number go abroad a lot in search of business. George A. Gaston also goes on the axiom that to work up international business one must travel internationally. Carnegie was an inveterate traveler.

Cotton Market Opening

New York, March 22.—The cotton market was steady at the opening at a decline of 6 points to an advance of 1 point. Offerings were rather light and the market later ruled barely steady. Some scattered Southern selling and local trade was followed by improved weather reports in the belt and the spread of rain to the cotton area in New England. Cables from Liverpool were better than had been made and Liverpool firms were among the early buying factors. Notices representing 900 bales were issued. Opening prices were: March, 19.35; May, 18.90; July, 17.96; October, 16.99; December, 16.85.

Liberty Bonds

New York, March 22.—Opening prices for Liberty Bonds were: 3½s, 97.92; 2nd 4¼s, 97.80; 3rd 4¼s, 99.00; 4th 4¼s, 99.24; Victory 4¾s, 100.02.

Noon prices were: 3½s, 98.08; First 4s, 97 bid; 1st, Second 4s, 97.80 bid; First 4¼s, 98.24; Second 4¼s, 98.02; Third 4¼s, 99.20; Fourth 4¼s, 98.82; Victory 3¾s, 100.04 bid; Victory 4¾s, 100.00.

Stocks Close Weak in New York; Call Money Climbs to 5½%; Exchange Up

SUGARS REMAIN DOWN; RAILS REACTIONARY

Lowest Prices for Oils, Motors and Equipments Recorded for the Last Hour

By W. B. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

The New York market took a weak at the close, prices being not little above the lowest for an active session. Transactions exceeded 900,000 shares and trading was brisk on the decline. Bottom prices for oils, motors, sugars, coppers, rails and equipments were recorded in the last hour. Declines ranged from fractions to distinct points.

Among stocks to fall the farthest were Fisher Body, Cuba Cane pref., Allied Chemical, Mexican Petroleum, Lima Locomotive, Chandler, Studebaker, Norfolk and Western, Northern Pacific and Pan American.

Eastman Kodak advanced 35 points to 130 during the day. Marlin Rockwell was up 3 at 24¾, but finished under its best figure.

Texas Co. advanced 2¾ to 69¾, its highest for more than a year.

An irregular opening was followed by a slow decline which was credited in part to the calling of a coal strike and also to a combination of sales to realize profits. Sugars were the weakest group, being affected by the congressional vote to retain the Fordney tariff on Cuban raws. Steels and oils eased off and coal carriers were kept under bear pressure. Their resistance, however, in the face of the strike order caused comment. Pullman took a course contrary to the list in general, advancing more than two points during the morning. It reflects equipment buying by railroads.

Speculative sank under profit taking. Price improvement in the second hour was led by low-priced rails. New Haven was among the strongest. In another reaction in the midday period high-priced rails sagged the most. The trend was upward in the afternoon, a number of issues then selling at the day's highest. American Ice reached a new record high. Sugars rallied a little after leaders had slumped two or three points.

Call money opened at 4 per cent, and by afternoon was quoted at 5½ per cent. The advance was due to government withdrawals of $19,500,000 from New York banks and bank settlements on income tax checks. Foreign exchange was higher, with the exception of cables from Paris and London, which they sold $30 to the pound sterling.

Stocks Are Kept Under Steady Pressure.

By W. S. COUSINS

New York, March 22.—The stock market was under constant pressure today and, with the exception of a few rallying points of short duration, the general trend of prices was downward, particularly in the high-priced speculative issues that have been holding the centre of the stage.

Northern Pacific and Great Northern from 2pm to 3pm, the market exhibited uneasiness, as to the action of the directors today on the dividend of the former. Those who believed that the directors would continue the regular 7 per cent dividend based their opinion on the fact that the cash position of the company had improved considerably since the payment of the last dividend and the steady increase in earnings, which have been reported since the turn of the year.

Another rise was sold Northern Pacific on the belief that the directors might alter the dividend to a semi-annual basis, which is tantamount to, at least, three months' postponement. Low-priced rails maintained their strong position.

Railroad Bonds Still Advancing

By MUNN ROBERTS
Copyright, 1922, By Cosmopolitan News Service.

New York, March 22.—Further strength and activity was exhibited in the bond market today. The more prominent advances were made in railroad bonds, New Haven 6s of 1967 gaining 2¾ to 47, Rio Grande 4s, 5s, 6s to 46½, and the Convertible 4½s, series D, up 1½ to 72¾. Reading had 4s at 92¾, up ¾, Hudson and Manhattan refunding 5s and adjustment 5s made gains of ¾ and the former 90 points.

The Fourth Liberty Bond sold up to new high at 99.24 and the Victory 4¾s sold up to 100.02.

The foreign issues were also fractionally higher. The "French cities" issues, Bordeaux, Lyons and Marseilles, gained nearly a point in the morning, while the new Department of these bonds at 95¾, sold at 96 and higher on record. Swiss confederation 8s at 111¾ have attracted a large following. Both the Chile and the Brazil 8's are also in demand.

New York Curb Narrow

By Cosmopolitan News Service.

New York, March 22.—Further changes in today's session of the curb market continued within narrow limits, while the general tone was steady, an irregular movement in the early afternoon carried prices of active issues to fractionally lower levels. The oil shares monopolized a large share of attention. Columbia Pete was firm and Cities Service withstood the accumulation of offerings on a stellar rail sales. Postum Cereal lost over one point.

Chicago Grain Market

Cosmopolitan News Service.

Chicago, March 22.—Wheat developed a better undertone following the early slip and prices ruled well. Seaboard advised that export demand for wheat corn and oats was light. The report of an advance of 2½ cents in the Argentine caused considerable buying around mid session. The Liverpool market closed ¼ to ½ pence higher. Reports from the Winter belt are that rains and snow have put wheat in fine shape.

Many in the trade remained skeptical about buying because of the large amounts of wheat on ocean passage, questioning the foreign demand would show any urgency for it while Corn manifested a rather firm undertone. Trade in oats was fairly active. Provisions eased after scattered selling by commission houses and packers.

Opening prices were: Wheat—May, 1.24¾ to 1.24⅝; July, 1.17⅝ to 1.18; Sept., 1.11 to 1.11⅛. Corn—May, on to 60¾; July, 62¾ to 63¾; Sept., 60⅝ to 60⅝. Oats—May, 37⅝; July, 39¾; Sept., 39¾. Lard—May, 11.16 to 11.05. Ribs—July, 10.15.

A Business Statement that is a Great Human Record

HOW WAS IT DONE?

Records kept by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company show an extraordinary decrease in the death rate among its Industrial, or weekly premium, policy-holders. Comparing 1921 with 1911, for example, there were 55,000 less deaths in 1921 than there would have been if the 1911 death rate had prevailed.

What brought about the great saving of life?

The general public health movement—progress in medical science and sanitation—other causes, perhaps. But a very great factor has been the tremendous health campaign carried on by the Metropolitan itself. This page tells a part of the story.

HELPING 19,000,000 PEOPLE

About 19,000,000 people are insured in the Metropolitan—over 16,000,000 under weekly premium policies. The weekly calls of Agents at the policy holders' homes provide a wonderful opportunity for health and welfare work.

The Company has accepted the opportunity and today is at the forefront of public health work in America.

14,000,000 VISITS BY TRAINED NURSES

Free nursing service is given to industrial policy-holders in 2,800 cities and towns. Trained nurses not only heal the sick but teach right living. About 14,000,000 visits have been made—2,116,875 in 1921 alone. Numerous letters tell of lives saved.

DISCOVERING DISEASE IN TIME

Free medical examinations often disclosing incipient disease in time to cure it, are granted to Ordinary (annual premium) policy-holders subject to reasonable conditions.

HELPING THE EMPLOYER TO HELP

Employers insuring their employees under Group policies are advised regarding health conditions and accident prevention, while the employees receive the benefits of nursing service and welfare literature.

238,000,000 PIECES OF LITERATURE

Attractive booklets and pamphlets in great variety, dealing with the important phases of health and disease and prepared by leading experts, are distributed broadcast. So far, 238,000,000 copies have been distributed—25,000,000 in 1921.

In addition, 18,000,000 copies of The Métropolitan, a health magazine, are issued annually.

A CITY THAT IS WATCHED

In Framingham, Mass., the Metropolitan is leading the way in a great experiment, watched by health authorities throughout the country, to demonstrate what proper municipal health regulation can do. Deaths from tuberculosis have dropped from 121 per 100,000 to 40 per annum.

FOR THE NATION'S HEALTH

144 health exhibits and emergency hospitals at county fairs last year; 295 "Clean-up" campaigns; agitation by Agents for health legislation; nation-wide campaigns against special diseases; sickness and sanitary surveys; a study of municipal health departments; leadership of practically all American research work relating to influenza—these are some instances of the Metropolitan's activity in the interest of public health.

HOMES FOR 17,744 FAMILIES

In the investment of its funds, the Metropolitan is now giving preference to loans which will aid housing. During 1920 and 1921, the Company made and pledged loans of $6,680,017, on new dwellings and new apartments, thus providing homes for 17,744 families.

GREAT DECLINE IN DEATH RATES

The death rate among Industrial policy-holders reached its lowest point in 1921—31.9% lower than in 1911. The rate from typhoid decreased 71%; tuberculosis, 49%; Bright's disease, nearly 30%. Infectious diseases of children nearly 37%. The "Expectation of Life" of white males (reckoned from age 10) increased 4 years.

PUBLIC APPRECIATION

The American people have made the Metropolitan the greatest life insurance company in the world, with $7,005,707,839 insurance in force.

It leads not only in Industrial but in Ordinary. More than half of its business in force is Ordinary—$3,892,267,274—which is more than that of any Company in the world.

THE FUTURE

The Metropolitan will continue its endeavor to offer the best there is in life, health and accident insurance, and to save human life. Continued growth will give the Company still greater opportunities to serve the American people in insurance protection and in the conservation of life and health.

RADIO CREATES DEMAND FOR ELECTRICALS

Evans Points to Future Possibilities of Them as Investments

By C. B. EVANS.

Chicago, March 22.—Demand for sound is tremendous, whatever may be true of grain or money. This has been seen for a long time past in this city in the immense crowds that attend the big theatres, which are a complex of the legitimate, the movie and the orchestral concert, plus some of the best singers in the country.

But this taste has latterly been gratified here by the refinements of the radio service, which now, from the domain of science and aesthetics is passing into the file of commerce and manufacture and has become an element of much importance.

The man who, in midocean, hears distinctly a concert going on in Liverpool, and that, too, with a receiver that can be carried in his vest pocket which will catch anything he happens to want to hear about him, these are the persons who have made this potent entry on the stage of business.

DEMAND HEAVY.

The fact is now well developed of heavy demand, visible enough in our library and the demand for these instruments is far beyond the present supply, which promises to be abundant enough in a few weeks.

To the man who is on the hunt for good investments it will readily occur that the electrical companies are those which, yielding good returns now, belong also to the future whether far or near. This is not a new idea by but it needs to be brought again and again before persons who are hailing in their opinions of what to buy. These new performances of man are electrical and call for an immeasurable quantity of electrical equipment.

The scientific men have taught us how to use the trade value of steel without wires but we must have a little machinery for ends and that little called for by millions or hundreds of millions of people means a tremendous aggregate.

ON THE EDGE OF THINGS.

We are just on the edge of these things, so little in that the producers are unable to quote prices definitely, still less to say when they can deliver the machinery of equipment to the dealer to enable him to meet the wants of his customers.

We have been told by the Department of Agriculture of great developments in communications, of news from that department to farmers. That service will be much extended but more lately private concerns will become so numerous and so efficient that officialdom will not need to do more than to act as distributor of news is on a rather liberal scale.

ENHANCES COMFORT.

The comforts of farm life will be immensely enhanced when the family assembled at evening can learn of the day's doings of the world or hear "Die Valun" from the stage of a city theatre and the whole setting will be pictures.

It is another—change—that makes the difference between the life of a civilized person and that of the savage or the beast in the jungle or hoss, and on the higher level the man who formerly was compelled to live his almost solitary life on a farm or in the, but of a miner now becomes an associate of his fellow beings.

The railroads have transformed the West into a well populated country, but we are at a stage where the pace of locomotive is not rapid enough and is too costly to an Atlantic port in the price of wheat. Developments afford some promise of effective aerial navigation, although the commercial value of that device comes rather dlowly.

It will come and there, as well as in the radio industry, the electrical companies have a large function. It is a long way from Franklin's key to present developments but centuries are shortened by electricity and the great things that electrical equipment is to do for mankind seem close by. The avarice and enterprise of the business man will take due notice.

Preferred Stock Offering

The books of the Rockland & Rockport Lime Corporation show assets of over $240 for each share of first preferred stock, after deducting bonded indebtedness of $250,000 in the hands of the public, and since $900 in earnings have always exceeded the amount required to pay interest on the bonds and preferred dends and dividends on first preferred stock, except in 1908 and 1914. Appropriately $500,000 has recently been expended for new construction, machinery and equipment, making possible increased production at reduced costs. Kidder, Peabody & Co. are offering its shares in blocks of five of 7 per cent. first preferred stock and one of common stock for $450 to yield 7%.

"MOP" BONDS BOUGHT BY KUHN, LOEB & CO.

By MUNROE ROBERTS, Cosmopolitan News Service.

New York, March 22.—An echo of the satisfactory progress of the reorganization plants of the Missouri Pacific road is seen in the purchase of $15,000,000 first and refunding mortgage 6 per cent. gold bonds, due February 1, 1944, by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. These bonds are to be issued to provide funds, to retire others and to reimburse the company for capital expenditures. The bonds will be offered at 97½ and interest, which yield 6¼ per cent. to maturity. The entire series is redeemable at the option of the company at the whole or any part, and interest upon 90 days' notice. The bonds are secured by a prior lien on all the property of the company, including 6,694 miles of roadway.

The reorganization of the $15,000,000 notes maturing April 1, the Erie Railroad has arranged to sell $10,000,000 bonds, the proceeds to be used to retire $5,000,000 of the notes, and the remaining $10,000,000 will be held by the War Finance Corporation. Arrangements also have been made for the extension of the $1,100,000 leased line bonds due May 1. Aside from this the Erie has no maturities until 1925, when $4,631,000 of New York & Erie third mortgage bonds fall due.

SEES JAPAN AS LEADING U. S. IN NAVY POWER

Cut Proposed by House Would Make Britain First, Japs Second, U. S. Third

By WILLIAM HARD.
Copyright, 1922, by Cosmopolitan News Service.

Washington, March 22.—Information from London and from Tokio, combined with a survey of the naval situation of the United States today, shows that, if the Appropriation Committee of the House of Representatives should be successful in reducing the personnel of the American navy to 86,000, the results would be as follows:

1. The ratio of five for Britain, five for the United States, and three for Japan, as set forth in the naval limitation treaty signed by the recent Washington Conference, would be changed in practice to five for Britain, three and a half for the United States and a little bit more than three and a half for Japan.

2. The whole effective fighting bulk of the American fleet would have to be concentrated in the Pacific at Panama and along our Western coast and at Hawaii in order to face all possible dangers from Japan, and there would be very nearly no American fleet at all on our eastern coast.

3. The navy yards would be closed or skeletonized, so there would be practically only two yards left.

ADVANTAGE FOR JAPAN.

The information from London shows that the personnel of the British navy after all proposed reductions have been accomplished, will be approximately 94,000, as contrasted with our proposed 86,000.

The information from Tokio shows that the Japanese naval personnel after certain proposed reductions have gone into effect, will stand around 84,000. The Japanese fleet will thereupon have the following advantages over our fleet:

(1) It will have a slightly larger number of trained men in organized readiness.

(2) It will have no Japanese possessions to defend on this side of the Pacific, while our fleet will have to contemplate the defence of the Philippines and Guam, under the naval limitation treaty, cannot be further fortified.

(3) Since the Japanese fleet is notoriously faster than ours and contains within it a very large capital ship in our navy can pursue and catch, the Japanese naval staff will be able to choose the hours of any war to blot our commerce from the face of the Pacific.

BOSTON YARD MENACED.

Since these facts are thoroughly realized by our Navy Department it follows that, just as soon as our naval treaty ratios are reduced to 5-5-3, it will become impossible to maintain any American fleet of importance on the Atlantic.

It will necessarily follow that, since most of the Japanese fleet will have to have submarines and the Panama Canal is not wide, it will have to be kept, the latter in order to avoid seeming to discriminate against the Democratic Southern Atlantic States.

The ones at Philadelphia, New York and Boston will then be empty docks and will have either to be skeletonized or shut down.

If the public wants the pitiful petty economy which is reported by the slashing of the American naval personnel from 86,000 to 84,000 it can propose 90,000 to the 65,000 proposed by the House Appropriations Committee. It should at any rate realize that, while the economy is small, the consequences gravely dangerous and may have to be measured by the fates of nations.

RAILS ADVANCE ON BOSTON EXCHANGE

After a strong start the Boston market followed the New York lead and prices suffered an easy reaction from the high levels of the morning. The list became irregular during the morning and was so at noon, with weakness confined to specialties. Losses were small, however, Boston & Maine & advancing 1¼ to 43¾, while the 1 issue moved up a point to 54. New Haven gained and Boston & Maine ranged from a point to 2¾ higher. Rails were down as a rule. St. Mary's Land declining 1 and Anaconda 1¼. Point or more losses were sustained by United Fruit, American Sugar and Warren Brothers, while Calumet & Hecla gained 3 on a few transactions. Mc-Elwain first preferred gained 1½. Trading was light on forward sale and activity.

The tone was heavy in the afternoon, when the market verged on being weak. Old Colony increased its gain to 2 points before closing at all. Island Creek gained a point. Issues to recede a point or more included Cumberland & Hecla, Pacific Mills and Eastern Steamship.

Contrary to other markets, the Curb showed some morning improvement, then heavy and became irregular. Leaders were Boston & Montana and Crystal. Gains at noon included Crystal 2 cents to 40 cents, Mutual 1 cent at 33 cents, Southern Star 2 cents at 19 cents and Submarine Signal 1 at 8. Among losses were Three Metals 2 cents at 90 cents, Boston & Montana 1 cent at 20 cents, Iron Blossom 4 cents at 20 cents, and Radio common ½ at 3⅜. Boston & Montana sold ex-dividend. It was lost.

Raw and Refined Sugar

New York, March 22.—Owning sugar prices were: Raw—May 3.26 to 3.26, July 3.36 to 3.37, September 3.46 to 3.46, December 3.56 to 3.57. Refined—May 5.10 asked.

Bar gold was off 16 at 20 pence per ounce in London today, while silver advanced ¾d to 35¾d an ounce.

HEAVY STOCKS OF POTATOES STILL HELD

30,935,000 Bushels Not Yet Shipped in 15 Producing States

Holdings on March 1 of potatoes in the fifteen States producing 70 per cent. of the United States crop totalled 30,946,000 bushels, or 28 per cent. of the production of these States, according to a bulletin issued by the United States Department of Agriculture bureau. Maine, New York, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, the Dakotas, Nebraska, Montana, Colorado, Idaho, Washington, Oregon and California are the States covered by the report.

Of the total 1921 crop in this territory, estimated at 240,287,000 bushels, the surplus over farm requirements is placed at 62 per cent., or 150,306,000 bushels. Of this surplus 119,371,000 bushels had been moved from the farms March 1 and 30,935,000 bushels remained available for shipment.

Of the Maine crop of 37,152,000 bushels, of which 57 per cent., or 21,178,000 bushels remained for shipping farm needs, 17,083,506 bushels had been moved up to March 17, the bureau announced. A stock County had available to move on account of the 7,985 cars or 700 bushels March 1 and the rest of Maine 625 cars.

$1 a Day in War's Boom Time Rather Mean

It is Reason No. 4 for Giving the Soldiers Their Bonus

Copyright, 1922, Star Company.

The one overwhelming reason for paying the bonus to the soldiers is the fact that in the war all BUT the soldiers got THEIR bonus.

Wages were doubled, profits of business men were multiplied by two, five and ten. It was a time of bonuses all around—except for young men that were taken from their work and made to serve the nation for $1 a day, while others were getting rich.

In his list of reasons for giving the ex-service men the bonus that they deserve W. R. Hearst gives the following as Reason No. 4:

FOURTH, because the average wage before the war was at least five dollars a day. But during the war the soldiers who went abroad and fought in the trenches received only one dollar a day, while the workers who stayed at home and worked in the factories under high war wages received approximately ten dollars a day.

The men who did the fighting got one-fifth the average wage, while the men who did not do the fighting got twice the average wage.

It is but poor and inadequate compensation to give those men who fought so bravely, who ran so much risk and endured so much hardship and privation, a very small part of what they were deprived of during the war which they won.

W. R. HEARST.

If we could afford to supply foreign countries with the money that they used to pay THEIR soldiers, why can't we afford to pay OUR men?

The debt of Europe to this country is eleven thousand million dollars. The interest on that alone at 5 per cent. would be more than five hundred million dollars a year, and more than enough to pay the soldiers' bonus. If the country is so rich and prosperous that it can afford to say to Europe, "Never mind about the eleven billions you owe us, never mind, even, about the interest," is it not also rich enough to pay the soldiers that sacrificed their opportunity, and their jobs, and that are now in need?

If anybody tells you the United States cannot AFFORD to pay its own soldiers what is their due, ask that individual how it happens that we can afford to pay the bonuses of other countries and can't afford to pay our own?

A Young Actress at Church

One or Two Other Things

Copyright, 1922, Star Company.

The stage and the moving picture industry have had many suggestions from clergymen, some helpful, some less so.

The other day churches might have found a helpful suggestion in the appearance of a moving picture actress, Miss Lillian Gish, in a New York city pulpit.

Thousands tried to get in that could not get in. The church was packed as it had never been before.

The young woman made a very simple speech, saying that she used to like to go to the Methodist Sunday School, she had been an actress since she was six, her sister since she was four. Their mother was with them and always had a Bible in their dressing room, etc.

It wasn't the young woman's sermon but the CROWD that might have interested clergymen. WHY did that young woman attract to the church such a crowd as, perhaps, has not stormed a church door since the days of Henry Ward Beecher? The answer is that, like Henry Ward Beecher, the young woman KNOWS HOW TO INTEREST PEOPLE.

On February 1 the average man in the United States had $3 in cash less than he had on January 1. The government knows, because it tells to a dollar how much money is in the hands of the people by counting what it has in its own hands.

The average man had a little over $53 in his pocket on the first of January, and on the first of February only $49 and a fraction.

Of course the real meaning of the figures is influenced by the fact that it takes in all money, including the big fortunes.

A French Senator has introduced a bill which would compel every chorus girl to wear not less than two yards of cloth in any one costume. Paris, it seems, has produced a spectacular exhibition called "The Dance of Love," which shows Adam waking up in the Garden of Eden, after eating the apple. It is mentioned that Americans visiting Paris occupy the front seats. It is hard to make people better, or more moral, by legislation. Betterment must come from within.

The other things always follow in the wake of war.

Able financial generals are our distinguished owners of railroads. The New Haven, as thoroughly mismanaged, looted and gutted a concern as ever fell into the hands of "respectable high finance," owes twenty-seven and a half million dollars in Europe. The first plan was to have the government kindly lend the money to pay off the Europeans. But a few words here and there seems to have checked that idea. Now the railroad wants to extend the loan in France on the following terms:

The interest rate would be 7 per cent. instead of 4 per cent. Whereas francs are now worth about a little less than nine cents apiece, the railroad would agree to settle on a basis that would give the franc a value of nineteen cents. Thus the proposal is to add 75 per cent. to the interest rate and to make an arrangement for cashing in that by doubling the present rate of exchange. Very nice financing. No wonder the railroads have to charge so much that they haven't freight or passengers enough to keep them busy.

Far-Seeing Irish Societies on Record

Two Massachusetts Organizations Oppose Four-Power Treaty as Being Worse Than League of Nations

The Friends of Irish Freedom and the president of the Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic, both of Massachusetts, have condemned the proposed Four-Power alliance between Japan, Great Britain, France and the United States now being discussed in the Senate.

These organizations stand exactly where they did during the discussion of the League of Nations, and they are opposing the entanglement of America with Great Britain and Japan just as much under the present treaty as under the League of Nations.

In its present form, this proposed alliance with the imperialistic nations is worse than the League of Nations. The provision putting our blood and treasure behind the imperialistic schemes of Great Britain and France, is worse than Article X. of the League of Nations.

We fear that there is danger that the American government under this treaty may undertake to join with Japan in crushing the aspirations for liberty by the 315,000,000 people of India. It is probable that the critical situation in India, in which Great Britain finds her grip on that wonderful British meal-ticket being slowly loosened, has had as much if not more to do with the surrender of Great Britain in Ireland than even the brilliant guerrilla fighting of the Irish Republican Army. Certain it is that the British soldiers which were pillaging Ireland are now crowding all the ships headed for India.

If through the indirect aid of the United States, liberty in India is crushed to earth again and the British troops and resources are thus released from that country, Ulster will always be able to furnish to the British the pretext for overthrowing any effective Irish free government.

But the situation, as it is in India today and as it will remain for sometime to come if Britain does not succeed in cozening some dull-witted government to aid her, makes Ireland safe to work out her own salvation under the present arrangement, and it will precipitate a favorable settlement of Egypt's troubles, it will keep Persia free from another attack by Great Britain, and it will keep Russia free from treacherous military expeditions into her remote parts, financed by the British.

So it is a far-visioned act by the Irish societies to oppose this Four-Power alliance with the world's worst imperialists. Would that every American who loves liberty unselfishly could see as far as these two Irish societies.

Presumption of Magrath

We Know of No Excuse for Medical Examiner's Withholding From Police That Clark Girl Had Been Poisoned

The presumption of Medical Examiner Magrath of Suffolk County in withholding from the knowledge of the proper authorities the fact that the Clark girl had been poisoned may or may not be a part of his characteristic freakishness.

When one sees attached to his car a gong that a fire chief would blush at and a searchlight that would do duty on a battleship and other more personal evidences of the dramatic instinct, we can afford to smile, but when this queerness begins to interfere with duty it becomes more serious.

We know of no excuse for Dr. Magrath in this instance. We hope he has one, and we shall be glad to publish it if he sees fit to give one. Otherwise this case will weigh heavily against his continuance in the important office which he now holds.

Reduce Hyde Park Fares

The Sooner the Understanding With Which She Joined the City of Boston Is Carried Out the Better

The sooner all those public officials, within whose jurisdiction comes the question of adjusting the car fare between Hyde Park and Boston proper, bend their energies to correct the great injustice now being suffered by the citizens of Hyde Park, the better it will be for us all.

Hyde Park today has to pay twenty cents to get to Boston. Other suburbs quite outside the city limits and even farther from Boston than Hyde Park pay only ten cents.

When Hyde Park came into the city family it was with the understanding that she should be treated in all respects as a part of Boston. One of the important considerations was that she should get a reduction in the car fare, and in this she has been disappointed.

We perfectly understand that the way is not easy to remove the inequality, but it is possible to do it, and the sooner it is done the better.

Rescue the Boston Stone

Little Known Historic Relic and Landmark Deserves an Honorable Place on the Common

What historical relic in Boston is least known?

This question was put to several local historians. They finally agreed that Boston Stone was the true answer. Few Bostonians knew anything about the Boston Stone.

It is down on Marshall street near Hanover. It has been there for more than two centuries. A few relic hunters know of its whereabouts. The stone is about two feet in diameter, embedded in the side of a building, and on the stone which supports it is this inscription: "Boston Stone, 1737."

This stone does not belong to the city, but to the owner of the building. Local historians say it was brought over from England in 1700 and for some time did duty in a crushing plant, then was turned into a mark for distances at this particular point. Old Bostonians used to say: "It's such and such a distance from Boston Stone."

Every other relic of Boston has been sheltered either in the Old State House, Faneuil Hall or in the archives of the New England Historical Society. Why not rescue this old Boston relic out of its present seclusion and give it a place of prominence on Boston Common?

Somebody's Birthday

Copyright, 1922, by the Bell Syndicate, Inc.

PEOPLE born under the constellations of March 22nd are primarily noted for their appreciation of all that gives beauty to life and to thought. They are rash, erratic, romantic and imaginative and often charged with the creative impulse.

If today is your birthday, you should develop every talent you have and give it all the education at your command for Fate has given you an equipment for a distinguished career in any one of the several vocations and you will have great success if you develop your will power enough to acquire concentration.

Marriage is one thing for which you are not preeminently suited. You might make a go of it if you find the right person, but be sure you do.

This day means for you happiness. Any social engagement should bring you unexpected pleasure.

Govern your ambitions for the coming year and give close application to matters of seemingly small details. As there may be serious breakers ahead due not to anything personal but outside influences.

A child born today will be guarded by the angels, for it will have a sweet disposition and be friendly to all.

Famous persons born today:

Laura Jean Libbey, Poet and Author.

Anthony Van Dyck, Artist.

Thomas Crawford, Sculptor.

Emilio Aguinaldo, Philippine Revolutionist.

Faddists Alone Talk Against Marriage

By Winifred Black

Copyright, 1922, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

HERE he is again, the man who doesn't believe in marriage. Every little while I get a letter from him.

He lives in New York somewhere, and he writes on some kind of a queer typewriter, with very small letters—and what he has to say is always well said, clear and distinct and forcible—but dear me, what a fad he has about marriage!

To him marriage is the one evil in the world. If it were not for marriage, bread would be cheaper, chops wouldn't cost so much—women wouldn't be so vain, men wouldn't be so cruel.

Why, I believe the man thinks the sun would rise earlier and go to bed later, and the moon would always be at the fore—if it weren't for marriages!

We're tied down by marriage, he says—we women.

We don't own our own bodies or our own hearts or our own minds or our own souls. Instead of being free, fearless, joyous creatures, like birds or rabbits or coyotes or something, we're timed, shrinking slaves, trembling at the lash in our master's hands.

Men Even Worse

And as for the men—they're even in a worse situation.

They're cowards and rascals, and liars and thieves—all because they're married.

And the world—the poor, old, frazzled-out world is going to the dogs as fast as it can whirl, and the only thing that will save us is to abolish marriage.

Throw away the wedding rings—burn up the marriage certificate—get rid of the old superstitions about the sacredness of the family relation—put the children in homes and let the government take care of them.

Set all the women to work, and have them pay their own board and lodging. Let love be as free as air, as plentiful as water and as natural as breathing.

Let's go back to the Garden of Eden and wear fig leaves and sleep under the trees, but let's take a lesson from what happened to Eve and let the apple tree alone.

How joyous it all sounds—how carefree and happy!

The only trouble with it is that it doesn't mean anything.

Not a thing—not even a joke.

What's the use of going back and being simply animals again? We've got out of the cave and the hut—why not stay out?

Freedom—as if there was any such thing on earth!

The freest man in the world is a slave and a willing slave the minute he falls in love—he doesn't have to wait for the wedding ceremony to tie him up for life.

It isn't marriage that makes the slave—it's love.

And who wants to be free at the expense of love?

Human Nature

I suppose it might be rather interesting to live on a mountain peak all alone, and not care who is dead or who is married or who's knitting baby socks, or who's buying a little house on the instalment plan or who's got a new job or who's lost an old one.

Marriage—it isn't men who make marriage or women, either. It's human nature.

I've heard a lot of these "no marriage faddists" talk a good many times.

There was one I remember—a fiery fellow with a heart of gold, and a head like a flaming torch, blazing one minute and cold the next.

He didn't believe in marriage —he thought it was an insult to a woman to ask her to give up her freedom and bind herself to any one man for life. He fell in love with a free-thinker — she didn't believe in marriage either. The other day I got their wedding card.

It was simpler to be married, they said — and that's what it really is. After all, marriage is just a public announcement of a great and beautiful relation — why be ashamed of it, why hide and excuse and apologize for something that should be the pride and the joy of every honest man and every woman of sense and sentiment?

U. S. Will Get German Trade

WASHINGTON, March 22.—Germany's recovery, by ability to ship more of her exportable surplus, will mean for the United States a greater proportionate share of business than for any other of the big world powers, according to government officials.

Germany during the present year, and before the year is far advanced, is expected by leading government experts here to become more stable financially and commercially. Germany's shipments to the United States last year amounted to $50,000,000. Secretary Hoover's figures today showed, in dollars that was less than in 1920. But in volume of goods transported it reflected greater export activity by German merchants.

As soon as Germany can see more clearly above the reparations fog, complicated through the unwavering French attitude, a reopening of the trade avenues for tremendous traffic is predicted by American observers abroad.

The United States sold to German buyers in 1921 $372,325,000 worth of goods. That exceeded by nearly $300,000,000 the amount Germany bought. But it is upon security that American firms, backed by bankers, consider reliable. There is one fact that stands out in the German-American trade relations—and it is the important point that American business has confidence in Germany's ability to pay and the confidence that she will pay, within a reasonable period, the trade debts now contracted.
